LAW REPORTS.

THE LARTIGUE RAILWAY.

DEBENTURE HOLDERS' MOTION.

In the Chancery Division yesterday, before Mr. Justice Gordon, in the matter of the Companies Act, 1867, and the Listowel and Ballybunion Railway,

Mr. Chadwick (instructed by Messrs. Longfield, Kelly, and Armstrong) appeared on behalf of Mr. H. E. Crawley, who had carriage of the proceedings in respect of the Debenture holders' action brought in England, and applied on his behalf for directions as to the steps which should be taken under the circumstances which had arisen, and which had rendered the continuance of the undertaking as a working concern a matter of the greatest possible difficulty. Mr. Thomas C. Moore had been appointed manager and receiver over the line many years ago, and he had been carrying on the undertaking under the Court for some time, there being really no company. This was a very small one-rail line, between Listowel and Ballybunion, Co. Kerry, and the small profits made on the undertaking were sent over every year to England for the benefit of the Debenture holders. Owing to the state of things existing in the country, the line had been entirely cut off from outside communication, and it had been closed down; and Mr. Crawley, who had carriage of the proceedings, thought it his duty to bring the matter before the Court at the earliest opportunity, for directions as to what should be done. Mr. Chadwick further stated that information had been received that morning from the Department of the Minister of Transport to the effect that the line had been re-opened, and was now carrying on. Mr. Crawley had not been aware of that when the summons was taken out, and under these circumstances he could not ask the Court for any order at present.

Mr. Justice Gordon said that the matter might be allowed to stand over generally.

Mr. Chadwick—Yes; it might be allowed to stand over for Mr. Justice Powell.

Mr. Justice Gordon adjourned the case generally, with liberty to re-enter before the Vacation Judge or Mr. Justice Powell.

ALLEGED SLANDER.

PARISH CLERK'S ACTION.

In the case of Keane v. Battersby, Mr. Murnaghan (instructed by Mr. Patrick A. Mooney) applied on behalf of the defendant for an order remitting the action for trial before the County Court Judge of the County Meath. Counsel said that the action was brought to recover damages for alleged defamation of character. The plaintiff is Charles Keane, Clerk of the Kells Catholic Church, and the defendant is Joseph Battersby, a farmer, in the same county. The slanderous words complained of were set out in an affidavit by the plaintiff, who said that on the 8th July there was a funeral from Kells Church of Commandant Sean Nolan, national troops, who had been killed a few days previously in a fight with the irregulars at Curraghtown, near Navan. It was a military funeral, and there was a big number of people in the church and the grounds. The funeral was fixed for four o'clock, but there was a delay owing to the non-arrival of the guard of honour. "It is my duty at funerals," the deponent continued, "to toll the bell and advise the priest when the funeral is ready to start, and on this occasion I was in the chapel yard. Amongst those in the church was the defendant, who suddenly came out and appeared to be in a very excited state, and, in a loud voice, said—'Where are your men (meaning the priests), that they are not officiating at this funeral?' I replied that the funeral would not start for a while, until the guard of honour arrived. Defendant then shouted, 'Neither you nor them like the colour that is on that coffin' (referring to the tri-colour covering it). He then walked away a few yards and shouted, 'All you want is a pocket full of money; you are like the priests—all you are good for is your pockets. I can prove that I left down money on the plate, and you took it up and put it in your pocket.'" It was utterly untrue that the plaintiff had ever taken money from the offering table at funerals for his own use, and, as a matter of fact, he never received any offerings from the defendant, who did not reside at Kells. The defendant denied having spoken the words, as alleged. Mr. Murnaghan contended that the action could be more cheaply and conveniently tried in the County Court.

Mr. Finlay (instructed by Mr. James J. Lynch), opposing the application on behalf of the plaintiff, submitted that the charge made against the plaintiff by the speaking of the words under the circumstances was of such gravity that it entitled him to have the action tried in the High Court. The charge of stealing money contributed for religious purposes made against the plaintiff, a sexton of the church, was a very serious one, especially having regard to the place where the words were spoken. Mr. Murnaghan had suggested that the words, if spoken, were idle, vulgar abuse; but they were nothing of the kind. It was not for the plaintiff to explain what reason there was why the defendant should have spoken the words. That was a matter for himself.

Mr. Justice Gordon remitted the action to the County Court for Meath. The issue in the case, he said, was not a complicated one, there being no suggestion of justification or privilege. The simple question was whether the words were spoken or not, and on investigation, there might be some evidence as to the meaning that was to be attributed to them. The County Court Judge would award any damages to which the plaintiff would be entitled. The costs of both parties would be costs in the cause.

CORK ELECTION EXPENSES.

In the matter of the Election for the Southern Parliament, held on the 16th June last, for the Constituency of North, Mid-West, South, and South-East Division of the County Cork,

Mr. Moloney (instructed by Mr. Thomas Healy, Skibbereen, election agent), applied on behalf of Mr. Healy for an order extending the time for receiving accounts by him to the 1st January next, or to some other suitable date. He also asked for extension of time to 8th January for filling up the returns concerning the election expenses of the candidates. In an affidavit, Mr. Healy stated that he was appointed Parliamentary Agent for the following candidates—namely, Michael Collins, Daniel Corkerry, Sean Hayes, Sean Hales, Sean McSweeny, Sean Moylan, Sean Nolan and Patrick O'Keeffe. All were returned, except the last-named three. The last day for payment of expenses was the 22nd July last, and for filling up returns for expenses, etc., was the 29th July. He had not received all the accounts within the statutory time—owing to the condition of the country and dislocation of railway and postal services.

Mr. Justice Gordon made an order extending the time to the second day of next term.

DAMAGED BY EXPLOSION.

Yesterday, before Mr. Justice Gordon, sitting as Vacation Judge, in the case of Brady against Murphy, Mr. Devitt (instructed by Mr. James Fagan), applied for an order that the plaintiff Peter J. Brady, be at liberty to expend the sum of £42 9s. out of the rents and monies payable out of the premises in Little Ship street, Dublin, which had been injured as a result of the explosion in the Four Courts. The estate was that of Margaret Mary Holmes, and it was being administered by the defendant, Mary Elizabeth Murphy, being her daughter. Counsel submitted an estimate made by Thomas Higgins, contractor, showing that the amount mentioned would be required in order to have the necessary work carried out.

Mr. Justice Gordon—You ask to have the money in the hands of the Receiver out of profits and rents and to credit of the estate applied to these repairs.

Mr. Devitt said that was so, and that credit be given to the Receiver in respect of the next account.

Mr. Justice Gordon granted the application.

A COMPANY'S CLAIM.

In the case of the Packing Cases (Dublin), Ltd., v. McGough, an application was made on behalf of the plaintiffs for final judgment for £114 14s., alleged to be due by the defendant, Frank McGough, soap manufacturer, of 33 North Summer street, Dublin (trading as the Irish Chemical Manufacturing Co.), to the plaintiffs in respect of goods sold and delivered. An appearance had been entered to the writ, and on behalf of the defendant it was submitted that he was entitled to defend and counterclaim, it being alleged that the goods supplied were not ordered.

Mr. Justice Gordon made an order giving the defendant liberty to defend as regards the whole case on bringing £69 into Court within a fortnight.

Mr. Marnan (instructed by Messrs. Thomas O'Connell and Son) appeared for the plaintiffs; and Mr. John Bartley (instructed by Messrs. Keating and Keating) for the defendant.

TOWN TENANT'S CASE.

Yesterday, before Mr. Justice Gordon, sitting as Vacation Judge, in the case of Isaacson v. Curran,

Mr. Bartley (instructed by Mr. R. Commons) applied on behalf of the plaintiff, Morris Isaacson, to obtain possession of premises 39 Raymond street, South Circular road, from the tenant Anastatia Curran. Counsel stated that his client had purchased the house in which the defendant occupied the rooms in question, on an undertaking given by her, but that inasmuch as she had failed to carry out her undertaking he had to determine her tenancy by notice to quit. The plaintiff relied on the fact that he required the premises for himself, and for the accommodation of his daughter, who had got married. The defendant, on the other hand, contended that she had not been able to obtain alternative accommodation. Counsel stated that the defendant had interfered with the landlord user of the premises, and had, in fact, used a sweeping brush.

Mr. Finlay (instructed by Messrs. Corrigan and Corrigan) said that they had not an opportunity of answering some of the statements made on the other side, and which were not in accordance with the facts.

Ultimately the application was allowed to stand over for a week for further affidavits.

A HUMAN SHIELD

HUNTED MAN'S DEVICE.

Dr. Byrne and a jury investigated the circumstances of the death of Patrick Brady, 50, a porter, of 8 South King street, Dublin, who died from bullet wounds which he received on Sunday evening during the pursuit of an armed civilian.

Mr. John O'Byrne (instructed by Mr. D. O'Flaherty) appeared for the State.

Elizabeth Miller, a sister-in-law, gave evidence of identification.

Constable McDonald, 175 B, said that while on duty at York street at 7.40 o'clock on Sunday evening he heard the report of two revolver shots in the direction of St. Stephen's Green, West. He hastened there, and saw a number of national troops dismounting from a motor tender between York street and the top of Grafton street. The troops called on a number of men, who were walking on the footpath at St. Stephen's Green, West, to halt. They refused to do so, and the troops opened fire. He thought that the shots came from inside the railings of the Green. Subsequently Patrick Brady was found wounded at St. Stephen's Green, West. The witness did not see him wounded. The national soldiers arrested a man named Denis O'Dea near the scene of the occurrence.

An officer of the national troops stationed at Portobello Barracks stated that a non-commissioned officer reported to him that at 7.40 p.m. on Sunday, while a party of five soldiers were proceeding along St. Stephen's Green, West, towards Harcourt street, two shots rang out. They immediately halted their car and got out. Two others of their men then came on the scene, and said that some men standing at the corner of York street had fired on the car and had escaped. Just as they started to return to the barracks the sergeant in charge noticed a man walking rather hurriedly down St. Stephen's Green, in the direction of South King street. He had come out of York street. He called on this man to halt, but he ran towards South King street. The sergeant jumped on to the path and pursued the man, at the same time calling on him to halt. The car had now backed close to the fugitive, who was again called on to halt. Then shots were fired in the air. Just outside Strahan's, of St. Stephen's Green, the troops fired to wound him in the leg. The man then caught hold of an old man who was going in the same direction, swung him around, and got behind him. While he was doing this the troops fired a few shots, in the course of which the old man was wounded. The other man then put his hands up and was arrested. He was found to be in possession of a fully-loaded .45 Webley revolver and two spare rounds. He gave his name as Denis O'Dea, 54 South Richmond street.

Dr. Moore, house surgeon, St. Vincent's Hospital, deposed that Brady was admitted to the hospital at about 8.15 on Sunday night, suffering from a bullet wound in the right groin. Preparations were made for an immediate operation, but he died before it could be performed.

Mr. O'Byrne said that at this time it was not safe to produce the actual witnesses of the occurrence, and if their attendance was deemed essential the inquest would have to be adjourned till such time as they could come forward in safety. It was a mystery how Brady was shot. He might have been shot by a national soldier or by someone else.

The Coroner said that the unfortunate man was not connected with the occurrence of the evening. From the intelligence officer it appeared that a man flying from justice got hold of him to put him between the troops and himself.

The jury found that death was due to shock and hemorrhage, due to a bullet wound, caused by troops in discharge of their duty.

A juror dissented, and stated that he wished it to be added that the troops were resisting attack.

PROFESSIONALS AT WOODBROOK.

The September stroke competition promoted by the Leinster professionals for prizes presented by Sir Stanley Cochrane, Bart., was played over the Woodbrook course yesterday under unfavourable weather conditions. Rain fell in a drizzle all the morning, while a strong cross wind accompanied the showers in the evening. Some of the competitors, however, sized up the wind to a nicety, and played really good golf in the teeth of it. Moses O'Neill, the winner of the Moran Memorial Cup three years running, and W. Holley, of the Castle Club, each returned an aggregate of 152, but as the Castle man was playing from plus 2 he was placed second, while the Irish champion, James Martin, who was also penalised two strokes for previous successes, secured third prize. O'Neill and Holley, it will be remembered, recently qualified for the two Irish places in the News of the World tournament, which will be held next month, and, judging by their consistently good form, they should do well across the Channel.

On the morning round Marriott led the field with a capital 75, while Barrett, M. O'Neill, Holley, and Sullivan each had 76. With the exception of O'Neill, Holley, and Martin, all the players showed indifferent form in the afternoon, and the scores returned were distinctly moderate. The Woodbrook course, which is splendidly laid out, was in capital order, and Sir Stanley Cochrane himself looked after all the arrangements, which were complete in every detail. Scores:—

M. O'Neill (Dun Laoghaire)	76	76	152
W. Holley (Castle), plus 2	76	76	154
J. Martin (Milltown), plus 2	78	77	157

EASTBOURNE TOURNAMENT.

SOUTH OF ENGLAND CHAMPIONSHIPS.

B. I. Norton retained the South of England Championship by defeating F. G. Lowe in the final round at Eastbourne by three sets to one (6—2, 2—6, 6—4, 6—3). The first set furnished the most attractive lawn tennis, Norton at this period hitting hard and with a good length, and frequently volleying. Norton altered his tactics afterwards, and the game became very slow. Play was from the back of the court, there were many protracted rests, and of the two players Lowe showed the greater enterprise. Results:—

THE CURRAG[H]

RACING IN THE RA[IN]

THE ANGLESEY STAK[ES]

SURPRISE WIN FOR FRE[NCH] BRIAR.

The opening day of the meeting was to a great extent by the miserable which prevailed, and, with rain falling cally throughout, the rather small comp far from an enjoyable experience. The rode very soft, which may account comparative dearth of runners, but e one notable instance the calculations of were seldom astray, and the punters whole fared by no means badly.

There was some close wagering on the Plate between Stand Aside, Wisket, an Ring, whilst Wild Captive was also well Magic Ring cut up in disappointing and Stand Aside, who was in the van t out, scored very readily from Wild Cap useful field of handicappers turned out Kildare Plate, for which Lord Northse finished second to Ferdia here last mon was now confidently expected to go one commanded most support. Had he steer of mishap he would probably have real hopes of his connections, but he was in with at a critical part of the race and out of his stride, and as a result prospects extinguished. Meantime and Knock Brack were sailing along head of affairs, and remained there furlong from the end, when Celtic Mis out his challenge and took their measu few strides, Snow Ball, who put in some work in the closing stages, just depriv devin of third place.

There were only three two-year-olds field of eight which contested the Brow Plate, and the trio filled the leading p at the finish. The going was all aga top weights, none of which ever flatter Jackdaw of Rheims, who hunted home Wing at Phœnix Park recently, scored if not easily, from Windy Way.

Next on the tapis came the Anglesey which was associated with a rare turn hitherto unheard of French Briar, w not in the least fancied and was allo start at odds of 20 to 1, outstaying the tion and scoring by a neck. It was appearance in public of Colonel A. J. colt, who was bred by the late Mr. Dennehy, but he showed not the slightes of greenness, and, battling it out with pl resolution when challenged by King Den landed this nice prize for the Maryb stable. Rabona, who took a lot out self at the starting post, where there tedious delay, gave a most disappointi play, and signally failed to reprodu Phœnix Park form. There she gave Dennis 15lb. and a beating, whereas yes when they met on practically level ter former finished a long way in front Maher's filly, who obviously does not reli going. Darragh, who was installed favourite, flattered for a long way, but to sustain the effort, and both Cynos and got every chance to win if they were enough.

The odds laid on Smoke Cloud for the Furze Stakes, run over a distance of two were never in doubt, and this son of Z Dhoo-Dheen is clearly a very fine staver. biggest field of the day, sixteen, contest Apprentices' Plate, in which Eagerloon, didly ridden by little W. Farrell, did a deserved turn for Anthony's stable.

THE CURRAGH.

RACING IN THE RAIN.

THE ANGLESEY STAKES.

SURPRISE WIN FOR FRENCH BRIAR.

The opening day of the meeting was spoiled to a great extent by the miserable weather which prevailed, and, with rain falling practically throughout, the rather small company had far from an enjoyable experience. The ground rode very soft, which may account for the comparative dearth of runners, but except in one notable instance the calculations of backers were seldom astray, and the punters on the whole fared by no means badly.

There was some close wagering on the Scurry Plate between Stand Aside, Wisket, and Magic Ring, whilst Wild Captive was also well backed. Magic Ring cut up in disappointing fashion, and Stand Aside, who was in the van throughout, scored very readily from Wild Captive. A useful field of handicappers turned out for the Kildare Plate, for which Lord Northsea, who finished second to Ferdia here last month, and was now confidently expected to go one better, commanded most support. Had he steered clear of mishap he would probably have realised the hopes of his connections, but he was interfered with at a critical part of the race and knocked out of his stride, and as a result had his prospects extinguished. Meantime Kildevin and Knock Brack were sailing along at the head of affairs, and remained there until a furlong from the end, when Celtic Mist threw out his challenge and took their measure in a few strides, Snow Ball, who put in some strong work in the closing stages, just depriving Kildevin of third place.

There were only three two-year-olds in the field of eight which contested the Brownstown Plate, and the trio filled the leading positions at the finish. The going was all against the top weights, none of which ever flattered, and Jackdaw of Rheims, who hunted home Marten-Wing at Phoenix Park recently, scored cleverly, if not easily, from Windy Way.

Next on the tapis came the Anglesey Stakes, which was associated with a rare turn-up, the hitherto unheard of French Briar, who was not in the least fancied and was allowed to start at odds of 20 to 1, outstaying the opposition and scoring by a neck. It was the first appearance in public of Colonel A. J. Blake's colt, who was bred by the late Mr. G. H. Dennehy, but he showed not the slightest trace of greenness, and, battling it out with plenty of resolution when challenged by King Dennis, he landed this nice prize for the Maryborough stable. Rabona, who took a lot out of herself at the starting post, where there was a tedious delay, gave a most disappointing display, and signally failed to reproduce her Phoenix Park form. There she gave King Dennis 15lb. and a beating, whereas yesterday, when they met on practically level terms, the former finished a long way in front of Mr. Maher's filly, who obviously does not relish soft going. Darragh, who was installed a hot favourite, flattered for a long way, but failed to sustain the effort, and both Cynos and Melra got every chance to win if they were good enough.

The odds laid on Smoke Cloud for the French Furze Stakes, run over a distance of two miles, were never in doubt, and this son of Zria and Dhoo-Dheen is clearly a very fine stayer. The biggest field of the day, sixteen, contested the Apprentices' Plate, in which Eagerloon, splendidly ridden by little W. Farrell, did a well-deserved turn for Anthony's stable. Details:—

Farasius began slowly, and Kildevin made the running from Knock Brack, Celtic Mist, Remember, Snow Ball, with Lord Northsea next, and Treble Scotch at the head of the others. So they ran until well in the straight, when Knock Brack took command, but failed to resist the challenge of Celtic Mist, who won easily by two lengths; a short head separated second and third. Mill Belle was fourth, First House fifth, Tailte sixth, Mascot's Pet seventh, and Lilian's Pet next.

IRISH ST. LEGER.

TO-DAY'S BIG RACE.

Although the field for the last of the Irish classics may not be numerically strong, the presence of the English contenders, Royal Lancer and Brest, will impart considerable interest to the race. The first-named, who won the St. Leger at Doncaster last week so easily, had a rough crossing from Holyhead, but was reported yesterday to be none the worse for the journey, and his connections fully anticipate that he will win to-day, and thus complete a unique double event. The following are the PROBABLE STARTERS AND JOCKEYS.

Lord Lonsdale's b. c. ROYAL LANCER, by Spearmint—Royal Favour, 9-10 (Sadler, junior) ...G. Archibald.
Lord Kenmare's b. c. SOLIMAN'S ORB, by Orby or Willaura—Soliman's Star, 9-10 (M. Dawson) ...T. Burns.
Mr. W. H. Dixon's b. c. BREST, by St. Brendan—Santina, 9-0 (Lines) ...J. Shatwell.
Mr. T. K. Laidlaw's b. c. KING DAVID, by Righ Mor—Minstrelsy, 9-0 (J. Hunter) M. Wing.
Mr T. J. O'Neill's ch. c. DOUBLE FIRST, by Tredennis—Alexa, 9-0 (T. Coombs)..J. Patman.
Colonel F. Blacker's ch. f. EL OBEID, by Charles O'Malley—Nile Valley (M. Dawson) ...Joseph Canty.
*Mr. W. Parrish's b. f. DUTY CALLS, by Spearmint—Templeboden, 8-11 (F. Grundy) H. H. Beasley.
*Miss Cowhy's ch. c. HIGHLANDMORE, by Lomond—Gargamelle, 9-0 (W. Rankin) —
Mr. T. G. Fletcher's ch. c. O'MALLEY MOR, by Charles O'Malley—Lady Nought, 9-0 (J. J. Parkinson) —
* Doubtful.

Brest's form on the other side of the Channel does not read anything out of the ordinary, and of the home-trained division the prospects of Soliman's Orb, who demonstrated by the style in which he romped away with the Gold Cup last month that he is a fine stayer, appeals to one most, but I do not think he will beat

YARMOUTH.

TO-DAY'S PROGRAMME AND SELECTIONS.

The Autumn Meeting commencing at Yarmouth to-day is always reckoned as a sort of racing festival by the inhabitants of the east coast. Notwithstanding, therefore, a long cross-country journey from Warwick, and the clashings with Ayr, Folkestone, and Newton Abbot, there is sure to be the customary huge attendance on the Denes. The weather prospects, however, are not over bright, and the sandy going, which never is firm on this course, will be found softer than usual. Yarmouth can be reached so easily from Newmarket in the morning that, although fields will rule large, it is impossible to forecast the exact size. The Norfolk and Suffolk Handicap is the chief event on the opening day's card of seven races, and it may be profitable to bear in mind that the Leaches are good to follow on the track. Selections:—

Monument Plate—Potent.
Nelson Plate—Cottage.
South Denes Plate—Dutchman.
Norfolk and Suffolk Handicap—Palomides.

Lord Carnarvon's Franklin won the valuable Queen Victoria Grand Prize at San Sebastian on Sunday.

Owners and trainers should note that entries for the Phoenix Park, Curragh, Proudstown Park, and Kells Meetings close to-day.

French Briar, who, ridden by the English jockey, J. Shatwell, brought off a 20 to 1 chance in the Anglesey Stakes at the Curragh yesterday, had not previously run in public.

Smoke Cloud, the winner of the French Furze Stakes yesterday, is a half brother, by Zria, to San Rafael, who won a race at Warwick on Monday.

W. Flatman's suit against the French Jockey Club, in which he asks for his reinstatement as a trainer and 100,000 francs damages, will come before a French civil court during the autumn.

Owners and trainers would do well to note that all entries for the Metropolitan (Baldoyle) new meeting (October 28th) close on Wednesday next, 27th inst. An attractive programme has been issued, particulars of which appear in another column.

Lord Middleton, who as Mr. E. Willoughby, was official starter to the Jockey Club, was recently presented by the flat-race jockeys with a gold cigarette case as a token of their esteem and respect. The signatures of the several subscribers are reproduced on the case, and in acknowledging its receipt to F. Fox, Lord Middleton expressed his gratification that the relations between him and the jockeys were always of so harmonious a description.

NEWS SUMMARY.

IRELAND.

There was a debate in the Provisional Parliament yesterday on the question of compulsory tillage, and the Government undertook to appoint a Commission to inquire into the state of the farming industry.—(P. 5.)

GREAT BRITAIN.

It is announced by the Admiralty that the railway companies have granted concessions to men on liberty tickets. Return tickets from the port of landing to any railway station in Great Britain and Ireland will be issued at single fare and a third.—(P. 6.)

ABROAD

The Cabinet has completed the details of the measures to be taken to protect the Straits against Turkish aggression. Kemal's official reply to the Allies' Note has not yet been received, but he is understood to have no intention of violating the neutral zones and to be willing to negotiate with the Allies in the matter of the future of Thrace and Constantinople.—(P. 5.)

The difference between Belgium and Germany on the question of adequate guarantees of the Treasury bonds to be given by the latter to the former have now been definitely settled, the Reichsbank having formally undertaken to repay the bonds in gold at the end of six months.—(P. 5.)

American refugees from Smyrna relate graphic stories of the night of terror following the outbreak of Turkish ferocity. Literally hundreds of panic-stricken people drowned themselves.—(P. 6.)

SPORTING.

Colonel A. J. Blake's French Briar won the Anglesey Stakes at the Curragh yesterday.—(P. 3.)

At Warwick Lady Clara won the Emscote Handicap Plate.—(P. 3.)

COMMERCIAL

London Stock Markets, on the improved political news, were somewhat more cheerful, and prices improved here and there.—(P. 7.)

Money was comfortable in Lombard street. The exchanges kept fairly steady. —(P. 7.)

Dublin Market was quite small, and price changes unimportant.—(P. 7.)

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH.

Lord Dunleath, who rents shootings near Aviemore, Inverness-shire, has narrowly missed death. While talking to a friend in a railway carriage at Aviemore, the train moved away, and the Earl's coat was caught in the carriage door. He was dragged along the platform, and badly bruised before the train could be stopped.

Farmers and Wages.

An interesting and significant debate was provoked in the Provisional Parliament yesterday by the Labour Party's demand for compulsory tillage. In a sense the debate was premature. Destruction must stop before construction can begin. No legislation, however drastic or ingenious, can increase harvests and reduce unemployment until life and property are safe throughout the land. Nevertheless, thoughtful Irishmen will welcome yesterday's debate and will be encouraged by it. It suggested, indeed, that Irish Labour is still at the beginning of its economic education; but it suggested also that the process will be stimulated enormously by the new status which Labour has achieved in national affairs. Furthermore, the evolution of a Farmers' Party, with an important influence in politics, will be an excellent thing for the farmers themselves and for the whole country. Hitherto, with brief intervals of uneasy truce, the farmers and organised Labour have been at daggers drawn. They were like the two old women in Father Healy's story: real agreement between them was impossible because they were "arguing from different premises." Henceforward a common platform will help them to take broader views and to recognise the essential identity of their interests. Already, we think, a change for the better is apparent. Labour speaks more moderately in Leinster House than it has been wont to speak at Liberty Hall. The Farmers' Party showed yesterday that, while it can defend its claims with fearless vigour, it can lend a ready ear to every good argument for co-operation and compromise.

Mr. Nagle, a Labour member, proposed that Parliament should dictate a minimum area of tillage for all land-holders. His simple calculation was that such a measure would find work for ten thousand agricultural labourers who are now unemployed. These are, of course, the slap-dash economics of the English Trade Union Congress; and Messrs. Burke and Gorey, of the Farmers' Party, hastened to expose their congested fallacies. If tillage yields little or no profit to the tiller now, a compulsory extension of it would drive him out of business altogether, and the mass of unemployment would be increased. The farmers' case is that farming does not "pay" at the present time because wages are too high and strikes too frequent, because agrarian Bolshevism prevails in some parts of the South and West, and because, when the crops are harvested, the native demand for them is disappointing. Those are familiar arguments. They have been discussed repeatedly by trade unions and farmers' unions, but always from the limited standpoint of the man who pays the wages or of the man who receives them. Until the national point of view is brought into the matter, imposing on both contestants a sense of proportion, a sense of perspective and a sense of common interest, the fight will have no end. Fortunately, the national point of view is beginning to introduce itself now, and the result of yesterday's debate has put a new and more hopeful aspect on the whole problem.

Mr. Nagle withdrew his motion and the Government promised an inquiry into the economics of Irish agriculture. It will be a useful inquiry if it serves merely to bring home to our legislators the extreme complexity of the subject. The farmer will not till at a loss, and Labour resists any reduction of wages. An obvious suggestion is that both shall be helped at the expense of some third party for whose welfare this country has no special concern. Mr. Thomas Johnson hinted yesterday that the golden bridge might be found in a measure of restriction on imports—that is to say, in a protective tariff against British and foreign foodstuffs. The proposal is attractive until we begin to study it from every side. It would increase the Irish farmer's output and profit, and, perhaps, would enable him to keep agricultural wages at the high level which obtains to-day. On the other hand, by eliminating the competition of foreign producers, it must increase the cost of living in Ireland; and the value of wages is governed by the cost of living. Moreover, protective tariffs provoke retaliation—a factor which might have most disconcerting effects on the real value of wages in Southern Ireland. By all means, however, let Mr. Johnson's suggestion be discussed in the country, and, when the time comes, in Parliament. The important thing is that the problems of our agriculture shall be taken out of the narrow arena of "union" politics and shall engage the best thought of men—farmers, labourers, middle-class consumers and others—who are being brought together in a companionship of effort for the common good. We hope that all these classes will be represented on the Government's committee of inquiry.

Practical Reparations.

At last some definite progress has been made in the solution of the reparations problem, and the business men have triumphed over the politicians. Yesterday Herr von Landsberg, German Chargé d'Affaires in Brussels, informed the Belgian Foreign Minister that the Reichsbank was prepared to guarantee six months' Treasury bills to the amount of 270,000,000 gold marks, to be used in the payment of various sums which fall due from Germany to Belgium between February and June of next year. Our readers will remember that, when the demand for payment was made originally, the German Government declared that without a long-term moratorium no payments of any kind were possible. The change has been wrought by Herr Havenstein's visit to London. This gentleman is the President of the German Reichsbank, which formerly was a Government institution, but now is completely autonomous. He came to London in order to secure the co-operation of the Bank of England in regard to the Belgian payments, and apparently his mission has been an unqualified success. The Governor of the Bank of England has agreed to guarantee German Treasury bills for payment to Belgium, and this welcome assistance removed the Reichsbank's last objections to the scheme of payments which was drawn up by the Reparations Commission in Paris last month. Belgium now is sure of her money. British credit has come to the rescue again. It would be a mistake to believe that the Bank of England has become a philanthropic institution or that there is anything Quixotic about its deal with the Reichsbank. The transaction is purely a business affair. The Bank of England will not lose by guaranteeing German bills. Belgium will gain immediately, Germany will get another breathing space, and in the long run all Europe will benefit directly. While the bargain is of no political importance, a useful political moral may be drawn from its success. Force and threats of force, whether they emanate from Paris, Angora, New York, or Berlin are useless in the settlement of present-day problems. The Allies might have been threatening to seize the Ruhr Valley for a twelvemonth, and they never would have a wrung a penny out of Germany. Herr Havenstein came to London, however; he was treated as a business man, not as an alien enemy, and the whole matter was settled in a few hours. Here is an excellent example for the future.

The Cost of Living.

The Departmental Committee which has been appointed by the Government of Northern Ireland to inquire into the cost of living in the six counties of North-East Ulster held its first meeting yesterday in Belfast. Mr. J. H. Robb, K.C., is its chairman, and a very representative membership has been secured. The rise and fall of the frugal housewife's weekly bills do not correspond with the variations of the official index figure of the British Board of Trade, and, being good business folk, the citizens of Northern Ireland are determined to sift the matter to the bottom. The exorbitant price of bread in Ireland, of course, plays a very large part in keeping living expenses at an unnaturally high level. There can be no fair comparison with British cities, such as Liverpool or Glasgow, while there is a difference of twopence or threepence in the cost of a four-pound loaf. The Belfast Committee has set out to collect evidence from every trustworthy quarter. Its investigations will follow food-stuffs from the cornfield to the trencher and from the cowshed to the dinner plate. Costs and prices will be compared carefully, and the committee will do its utmost to discover into whose pockets the profits are flowing. The findings of this committee will be very valuable to the people of the twenty-six Southern counties, and Mr. Robb's report will be awaited with interest south of the Boyne. Until an authentic index figure for both parts of Ireland is established beyond argument or criticism strikes and trade disputes will be inevitable. If Southern Ireland had known exactly where it stood in this respect a month ago, there never might have been a postal strike. The cost of living is the most important of all modern problems. The price of bread means far more to the average man than the fate of Smyrna or even the military occupation of Ballydehob.

A Victorian Renascence.

The revulsion of feeling among women against short skirts and the remarkable "vogue" of Mr. A. S. M. Hutchinson's novels have led many eminent people to believe that we are on the verge of a Victorian renascence. "Feminism" has been running riot for the past fifteen years. Women have invaded all the professions, and the game-playing, cigarette-smoking young woman of our times has very little in common with the fragile creature of half a century ago, when the vapours were the fashionable complaint. During the last year, however, signs have not been wanting of a reaction. The outrageous "flapper" of post-Armistice days has almost disappeared. Domestic virtues are no longer at a discount, and the "womanly" woman is beginning to come into her own again. Cynics attribute the change to the fact that supply follows demand, and that men are refusing to marry any but home-loving girls. There probably is some truth in this contention, but is it not more likely that manners, like fashions, come and go in cycles? The "super-woman" of the Bernard Shaw period has had her day, and is yielding place to the type which she deposed. The process has been going on throughout history, and will continue to the end of time; but modern or Victorian, smart or dowdy, woman always will manage to retain the element of mystery which has intrigued mankind since the days of the Garden of Eden.

ABBEY THEATRE.

A DOUBLE BILL.

A double bill, presented to a fairly large attendance at the Abbey Theatre last night, brought light and shade together in the dramatic art. "Birthright," a two-act play by T. C. Murray, which is consistently gloomy in its theme, gave the audience an opportunity of witnessing really good acting, and whetted its appetite for the comedy that was to follow.

Mr. Peter Nolan, as Bat Morrissey, was exceptionally impressive in the heavy rôle of the irritable father of a disappointing heir. In a no less trying character, he was ably supported by Miss Eileen Crowe, as Maura, his wife. The two sons, opposite in their natures, had fine exponents in Mr. P. J. Carolan and Mr. Michael J. Dolan, and the remaining character of Dan Hegarty, a neighbour, was fittingly portrayed by Mr. Tony Quinn.

"Insurance Money," a comedy in three acts, by George Shiels, with its mixture of artfulness and good-natured simplicity, was well done by a body of players, who shared the honours of the night equally. They were:—Miss Eileen O'Kelly, Miss Eileen Crowe, and Messrs. Peter Nolan, Gabriel J. Fallon, Tony Quinn, and Michael J. Dolan.

PREMIER AND GENEVA.

Reuter's Agency is informed that, although it is possible that the present situation in regard to the Near East may prevent the Prime Minister from attending the League of Nations Assembly at Geneva, no final decision one way or the other has yet been made by Mr. Lloyd George.

REPORTS OF INQUESTS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—I and many other Dublin citizens have read with amazement the garbled accounts of some recent inquests appearing in the Dublin Press. It is pretended that there is now no Press Censorship; but the reports in several cases have been mutilated by the suppression of material evidence.

That essential facts disclosed by witnesses should be withheld from the public in such cases, without a justifying reason, or that they should be distorted in the telling, is not only a shameful condition of dishonesty or cowardice—it is criminal. In the case of young Mannion, reported in to-day's issue, such evidence given at the inquest was omitted by the Press. Public justice demands that the fullest details be published. . . .—Yours, etc.,

G. N. COUNT PLUNKETT.

LONDON LETTER.

THE NEAR EAST.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
TUESDAY NIGHT.

In diplomatic circles to-day the situation with regard to the Near East was regarded as being much easier, and there is now a firm hope that all will end in a satisfactory manner. The Cabinet sat yesterday until 8 o'clock, with further meetings to-day, and it may be regarded as certain that the Government intends to leave no stone unturned to safeguard our position in the Dardanelles, without the slightest intention of making unnecessary war. After the Cabinet meetings yesterday Mr. Churchill entertained the Prime Minister and some other Ministers to dinner at his house in Sussex square, when further discussions took place. It is thought that the Prime Minister and his Cabinet recognise the strong feeling prevailing against any advance towards warfare, but deem it best in the nation's interest to let the world see that we are ready and able to look after our own interests.

For the moment the point of interest is changed to Paris, where Lord Curzon has gone to interview M. Poincaré and talk matters over. Up to the present there is a doubt whether the French Government has withdrawn its troops from Chanak and other places on the Asiatic side of the Dardanelles, and no communication on this point has reached the Government here. Our Government has, in fact, addressed a Note to the French Government expressing its gratification that France has decided to support the general line of the policy adopted by Great Britain. Lord Curzon is expected to be back in London before the end of the week.

A version of the Note reported to have been issued by Kemal Pasha has been received in London from Paris, but it has not yet been received officially here. The Note is said to convey an assurance from Kemal Pasha that he will not attack either the Dardanelles or Constantinople, but that he reserves the right to occupy the places hitherto held only by the Greeks. One of these is Chanak, where the British troops are now engaged in throwing up defences. It is rumoured, however, that, if the version of the Note given in Paris is correct, it will be accepted in official circles as being satisfactory.

MR. LLOYD GEORGE AND GENEVA.

Mr. Lloyd George does not intend to be far away from Downing street during the next few days, and it is probable that he will spend his days there and his nights at Chequers. There will be frequent meetings of Ministers, though not in Cabinet form, and the prospect of a visit to Geneva daily grows more remote. The visit cannot now take place this week, and it is hardly likely to take place next week. Scarcely anybody in official circles now thinks for a moment that the Prime Minister will leave the country for even a couple of days.

It is curious that the Bank of England should be a factor in the immediate settlement of the reparation dispute with Germany; but the arrangement by which the Bank has guaranteed the six months' reparation bonds from Germany to Belgium is described as a purely financial one, and possessing no political significance. It has, therefore, to be assumed that the Reichsbank has given the Bank of England very substantial guarantees as regards security. The Bank of England by its action has given Europe a little more breathing time in the reparations crisis.

At to-night's Labour demonstration Mr. Ramsay Macdonald will have an opportunity of displaying his very considerable knowledge of the Near East, and, incidentally, of making political capital out of the Prime Minister's handling of peace problems. Mr. Macdonald has been quite lately in Constantinople and professes to have some insight into the mentality of the Turk, so that his analysis of the situation promises to be more than usually interesting. I fancy that the meeting would have been more effective from the political point of view if it could have been arranged to take place earlier, before the first shock of the Government's semi-official declaration had worn off.

It will, however, provide a useful send-off for Labour's intensive political campaign, which has to be kept going until the general election. It may also have its reactions on the effort to hold the position which the movement has won in London municipal affairs. This is going to be a tough struggle, because the Progressive and Municipal Reform Parties, although they have no definite pact, are regarding it as their common interest to keep the Labour man out. On the other side the Labour Party has effected a somewhat indefinite alliance with the Communists. Those in touch with the Labour organisation tell me that it has been greatly strengthened in the last twelve months. Perhaps, its hardest task will be to persuade the electors to forget about Poplar.

BRITISH GOLFERS.

The British golfers who arrived back in London yesterday spoke freely of their defeats in the United States, both in the international match and the Amateur Championship, which they attributed to the deadly putting of the Americans. What principally impressed them, however, was the extraordinary development of the game on the other side of the Atlantic. Courses, they said, are springing up all over the States, and the popularity of golf is seriously threatening even that of baseball. There appear also to be many boy players showing signs of developing into finished performers of the Bobby Jones type—thanks to the assiduous practice in which they are given the opportunity to indulge.

The belief which has up to the present consoled British sportsmen that, although America could just now boast of golfing marvels, such as Messrs. Sweetzer, Evans, Guilford, Ouimet, and Jones, the American rank-and-file, man for man, were no better than the British, seems to have been seriously shaken. The remark made by one of our team to the effect that the American putting was "rather more plucky than brilliant," and that it might not come off quite so well on finer greens as it did on the well-watered American greens, was probably well founded, but it does not afford any special consolation.

The Post Office has now decided to stop the issue of broadcasting reception licences. This action has been rendered necessary, it was stated at the G.P.O. to-day, by the fact that at any time new regulations as to the issue may have to be made. Licences have been issued up to now under the old regulations. In those days the present possibilities of broadcasting were undreamed of. What this decision amounts to is this. The interest concerned and the broadcasting company reach agreement, and place such a scheme before the Postmaster-General as he can sanction. No amateur will be permitted to erect an aerial or put apparatus into commission unless he has already received his licence. Application forms may still be obtained from the G.P.O. If the fee is sent, a receipt will be issued. But this receipt is not equivalent to a licence. Licences may be issued upon these application forms when the new regulations are made by the Postmaster-General.

RAILWAY OFFICIAL RETIRES.

Mr. Richard Humphreys, who has been for half a century connected with the London and North-Western Railway Company, and who has just retired from the position of goods manager at the North Wall, Dublin, has been made the recipient of a presentation consisting of a gold watch, with suitable inscription, and a cheque for a substantial sum of money.

MEASURES TO PROTECT THE STRAITS.

DOMINIONS' WARM SUPPORT.

PROSPECTS OF PEACE BY NEGOTIATION.

TURKEY'S AMBITIONS INDICATED.

Ministers were again in conference with the chiefs of the Navy, Army, and Air Force yesterday to complete the arrangements for resisting a possible Turkish invasion of the neutral zones. It is emphasised that the Cabinet is strongly averse to a new war, but is determined to preserve the fruits of the Allies' victory over the Turks. In this determination it is enthusiastically supported by the Dominions.

Kemal's reply to the Allies' joint Note has not yet been received, but an apparently inspired view in Constantinople is that the Turks are willing to submit the question of the future of Thrace and Constantinople to a discussion between the Allies and the Angora Government.

Turkey does not intend to violate the neutral zones, agrees that the Straits must be free, but objects to the Allied occupation of Gallipoli, and demands Adrianople.

One party in Turkey favours a settlement by diplomatic means, but another, and stronger one, favours force.

YESTERDAY'S CONFERENCE.

SITUATION LESS MENACING.

There was a further meeting of Ministers to consider the Near East situation at 10 Downing street at 11 o'clock yesterday. The attendance was exactly the same as on the previous day, there being present, in addition to the members of the Cabinet, the respective Chiefs of the Admiralty, the War Office, and Air Force.

Sir Hugh Trenchard, Chief of the Air Staff, left the Conference at about half-past twelve o'clock, and Earl Beatty shortly afterwards, but the Ministers remained in conference until one o'clock. No further meeting of the Cabinet has been arranged.

The Prime Minister left for the country later in the afternoon; other Ministers also left town. As no further Ministerial Conference has been arranged it may be assumed that the war cloud has lightened, even if it cannot properly be said to have vanished altogether.

Another indication of an improvement in the situation was a statement made at the Admiralty yesterday evening that Earl Beatty, who had arranged to go to Paris, might now find it unnecessary to make the journey.

The Council was chiefly engaged yesterday in considering the details of the naval and military measures necessary to support its declared Near Eastern policy should measures prove necessary.

A view that naval force is sufficient to prevent the crossing of the Straits is based on the deliberate advice of the Government's chief Naval advisers.

His Majesty's Ministers, it is stated on good authority, are as much averse from war as it is possible for anybody to be, and their view is that the measures taken and proposed are eminently calculated to prevent a recurrence of war in that particular theatre.

The Central News Political Correspondent writes:—The story of a concession by the British Government which would have permitted Kemal to enter the neutral zone was promptly denied by Downing street to-night. This denial is the measure of the Government's determination to see the matter through. It is in grim earnest about Constantinople and the Straits, and if it becomes necessary to summon Parliament, it will stand or fall by its policy.

It is also obviously intent on coming to an understanding with France as to what precisely the French association with the Angora Government amounts to. Great hopes are based on a happy issue of Lord Curzon's visit.

DOMINIONS' RESPONSE.

NEWFOUNDLAND READY.

The Prime Minister yesterday morning received from the Acting Prime Minister of Newfoundland the following cable:—"Ministers appreciate position taken by His Majesty's Government and Allies, and are in fullest sympathy therewith. I believe that, as in the past, Newfoundland will be ready to render all assistance available."

SOUTH AFRICA VOLUNTEERS.

A Johannesburg telegram, dated yesterday, says:—Numbers of men came forward to-day to enlist in connection with the Near East crisis, and the authorities were forced to put up notices that so far no recruiting has been authorised for service in Asia Minor.

"ANZAC" SPONTANEITY.

The Federal Cabinet of Australia met in Melbourne yesterday morning and discussed the Near East problem. The Ministers endorsed Mr. Hughes's action in offering troops for Gallipoli.

Subsequently Mr. Hughes, in the House of Representatives, reviewed the situation, and added that he had considered it necessary to tell Mr. Lloyd George that the Commonwealth would stand by Great Britain in defending the freedom of the Straits.

Mr. Matthew Charlton urged that the House should not permit the Government to despatch troops without consulting the people.

Meanwhile, the General Staff is marking time, pending the announcement of the Government's policy. Volunteers are enrolling throughout the country. A thousand offered themselves for service in Sydney on Monday, and this number was expected to be exceeded yesterday.

Ex-soldiers of the British Army, resident in Australia, are particularly keen to join up locally.

The Federal President of the Returned Soldiers' League has written to Mr. Hughes, assuring him of the abiding loyalty of the men who fought in the war.

Greeks resident in Australia have announced their readiness to respond to their country's call with men and money.

A Wellington (New Zealand) telegram, dated yesterday, says:—Parliament has unanimously confirmed the action of Mr. Hughes, the Prime Minister, in associating New Zealand with Great Britain in the development in the Near East, and in offering a contingent of New Zealand troops for the defence of the Straits.

ENTHUSIASM IN CANADA.

Telegraphing from Ottawa yesterday, Reuter's Correspondent says:—Following upon a further meeting of the Cabinet this morning, the Prime Minister, Mr. Mackenzie King, announced that the Government had not yet received such information from Great Britain as would permit of a decision being taken as to whether it was necessary to call a special session of Parliament. Such information as had been received was reassuring.

The Toronto Correspondent says:—Letters are pouring in at the offices of the Great War Veterans' Association volunteering the services of the writers should the Canadian contingent go to the Dardanelles.

Many of the letters come from the United States, and a Massachusetts doctor writes that he wants to get into the fighting. Reports show that thousands of volunteers have presented themselves at the various centres throughout the country.

IMPERIAL POLICY.

WIDE PUBLICITY DESIRED.

The following official statement was issued at 10 Downing street yesterday afternoon:—

"It is stated in some newspapers that the semi-official declaration of policy issued to the Press on Saturday is now regarded by the Government as mistaken. This statement is untrue.

"The declaration of the policy given to the Press on Saturday represented the decisions of the Cabinet on the previous day, and was issued with the approval of all the Ministers present in London in order that public opinion throughout the Empire should be left in no doubt regarding the aims and intentions of the British Government on critical questions of Imperial policy in which the support of the Dominions had been invited by telegraph.

"The Cabinet is well satisfied with the support accorded to it, not only in this country, but in the Dominions. As stated in the telegrams sent by the Cabinet to the Prime Ministers of Australia and New Zealand yesterday, the Empire will not consent to sacrifice the results of the gallant struggle and decisive victory of its sons in the Eastern theatre."

NO REPLY FROM KEMAL.

OUTLINE OF TURKS' POLICY.

It was stated definitely yesterday evening at 10 Downing street, and also at the Foreign Office, that no reply from the Kemalists had been received, although telegrams have been published purporting to give versions of it.

If Kemal's attitude be that attributed to him—i.e., no intention or desire to invade the neutral zones—it goes far to justify the assumption that there is no probability of a new war, and that the prompt measures approved by the Government will not have to be carried into full effect.

A representative of the Government, expressing that view yesterday afternoon, said—"We are bound to be wrong, in any case, according to some views; but what a howl of execration of the Government there would have been had the threatened conflict materialised and found us without any provision to meet the situation!"

The firm determination of the British Government is that the Kemalist troops shall not be allowed to cross the Straits, and its opinion is that the naval force available in these waters is sufficient to prevent them from so doing.

It is important to remember, however, that this does not dispose of the necessity for making provision for maintaining the neutrality of the demilitarised zone on both sides of the Straits should opinion in regard to naval sufficiency be falsified by events.

KEMALIST INTENTIONS.

INSPIRED STATEMENT.

The following apparently inspired telegram has been received from Constantinople:—

In consequence of the re-occupation of the whole of Anatolia by the Nationalists, the Near East question is now concentrated on the Straits, Constantinople, Thrace, minorities, and capitulations.

The solution of the Thrace and of the Constantinople question devolves on the Powers, because if the latter were not in occupation of the capital the Kemalists would compel the Greeks to evacuate Thrace.

The question will, then, have to be discussed between the Allies and the Turks.

The Kemalist army does not intend to violate the neutral zones, but Angora demands the rapid settlement of the questions pending between the Allies and Turkey.

Turkey will concede the minorities the guarantees demanded. She accepts the disarmament of the Straits, the freedom of navigation under the control of the League of Nations, but does not accept the military occupation of Gallipoli, and will demand Adrianople.

Turkish circles do not understand England's insistence on the participation of Yugo-Slavia and Rumania in a conference.

In Nationalist circles the majority is for a pacific settlement of all the questions between the Powers and Turkey, but they regard the prior evacuation of Thrace by the Greeks as absolutely essential.

The Correspondent adds:—In Turkish circles there are two distinct tendencies—one in favour of settlement of all questions by diplomatic means; the other of use of force. The majority inclines towards the latter. The general drift of opinion is rather pessimistic.

The Turkish Press Bureau issued the following statement in Paris last night:—

"The statement made by Ferid Bey, the representative in Paris of the Angora Government, to a representative of an American newspaper on the question of the Straits, having been misinterpreted, the Turkish Press Bureau is authorised to make the following explanation of it:—

"Turkey is ready to negotiate with the Powers on the question of the freedom of the Straits, and she will take into consideration their wishes, with a view to ensuring the opening of the Straits to international communications."

FRENCH CABINET MEETING.

ALLIED CONFERENCE TO-DAY.

At a meeting of the French Cabinet yesterday morning M. Poincaré informed his colleagues that instructions had been sent to the French diplomatic agents to the Allied Governments in relation to Eastern affairs, which fully confirm the Government's former policy, with a view to ensuring peace in the East.

Reuter's Agency understands that the British Government has officially expressed to the French Government its appreciation of the latter's attitude with regard to the joint notification to Mustapha Kemal. The British Government declares that it welcomes most cordially the assurances of M. Poincaré on this question and also on that of the occupied zones. The hope is expressed that the spirit of co-operation shown will rule the future discussions.

The Marquis Curzon left Victoria for Paris at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, charged with a mission to represent the British views on the Near East situation to the French Government, and to endeavour to learn theirs in return. Earl Beatty is leaving for Paris to-day.

Signor Schanzer, the Italian Minister for Foreign Affairs, has appointed Count Sforza, the Italian Ambassador at Paris, to represent him at the interview between M. Poincaré and Lord Curzon (says Reuter's Rome Correspondent.)

LABOUR PROTEST.

"STOP THE WAR" CRY.

The National Association of Unions in the Textile Trade, which combines 31 organisations, has passed a resolution protesting against war with Turkey, and pledging itself to take any and every means necessary to frustrate "this mad and idiotic policy."

The Lord Mayor of Bradford is calling a town meeting to protest against a war with Turkey.

Mr. H. Turner, the Yorkshire Textile President, has sent the following telegram to the Prime Minister:—"Stop any talk of war. Use the League of Nations. Labour opposed to all war."

REPARATIONS AGREEMENT.

SIX MONTHS' TREASURY BILLS ARRANGED.

BRUSSELS, Tuesday.

Herr von Landsberg, the German Chargé d'Affaires, called on M. Jaspar, Minister for Foreign Affairs, this morning, and informed him that the Reichsbank was at present ready to guarantee the six months' Treasury bills, of the total of 270 million gold marks, demanded of Germany, and falling due between February 15 and June 15, 1922, and to renounce the twelve and eighteen months' extensions asked for.

In these circumstances, the Belgian Government thinks that a friendly solution of the differences on the basis arranged by the delegates in Berlin is possible.

M. Jaspar afterwards received the French and British Ambassadors, and informed them of the result of the negotiations.

CHANGED PLANS.

WAR IN THE HILLS.

THE NATION'S NEEDS.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

LIMERICK, Monday.

Ever since the radical change in strategy made by the irregulars in August it has been increasingly difficult for the national Army to strike any blow of immediate effect. So long as the irregulars held definite positions the superior equipment and more experienced high command of the national forces enabled them to rout their enemies from position after position till, towards the end of this phase of the war, it was sufficient for a small column to approach a town, and the irregulars immediately burnt the principal buildings and retreated without offering any opposition.

It is useless to conceal the fact that the deliberate adoption of pure guerrilla tactics by the irregulars has put them in a position which is in some respects much more favourable, and which has correspondingly produced an elevation in their spirits. Securely quartered in the hill recesses and in the smaller villages remote from observation, they were able to get a breathing space which, if possible, should not have been allowed to them. So long as they were stationed in big towns and across main routes the ordinary backward and forward flow of the civilian population going from one business centre to another made every movement of theirs immediately known to their foes, and the interference in the life of the business element of the population which their activities had brought about surrounded them with an oppressively hostile population. Their retreat to the hills removed many of these disadvantages. In the midst of a backward countryside whose population were comparatively ignorant, unable to grasp the salient facts of the political situation, preserving still to a large extent that curious distrust which in all countries and epochs has divided the dwellers in town and valley from the men of the mountains and the empty spaces, they were able once more to pose as liberating heroes.

SAFE FROM HARRYING.

Furthermore, the life of such areas is self-contained. The economies of the homestead are largely self-centred. Trips to the towns, though necessary on the occasions of fairs and markets, are not numerous, and what provisions are required to supplement home-grown food can be obtained at long intervals. From all of which it follows that information cannot so readily leak out, and that the irregulars, safe from any harrying other than the somewhat haphazard chances of the "sweep," find time to preen themselves, to gain courage by repeating, in the words of Doctor Coué, that every day and in every respect they are getting better and better, to plan raids on isolated posts, and, in short, to double their efficiency. From a military point of view their position was much weaker than before. Supplies were a difficulty, as food in these thinly-populated parts of the country is scarce, and the irregulars, living on the land like an army of locusts, were, like locusts, forced to move from place to place to obtain sustenance. Clothes, too, get worn out, and housing is not always available. Ammunition becomes a vital problem, and, with the army split up among different areas, a concerted plan of campaign is difficult to form and still more difficult to communicate and control. A regular army placed in such a position might well despair of any victory and would capitulate. Yet this position is not unfavourable to an irregular force which seeks no immediate military decision, and is accustomed to the kind of warfare which such circumstances dictate.

SWEEPS AND SEARCHES.

Faced by this change, the commanders of the National Army determined to adopt a plan of campaign which should have been suitable. Towns were garrisoned with posts of varying size to keep the irregulars from supplies, mobile columns organised to pursue the enemy into their fastnesses, and "sweeps" organised to clear areas where the irregulars were dispersed in small bodies. But a number of difficulties arose and still subsist. Such a plan requires an infinitely greater number of troops than does a warfare of lines and positions, and the troops available were not—and are not—sufficient for the purpose. Greater responsibilities and demands for leadership are put upon junior officers; and the national Army has been and is wofully ill-supplied with junior officers of skill, training, powers of leadership, and thoroughly offensive tradition. Transport, much abused by the demands of the war, was insufficient and unreliable. Much of it was retained in unimportant areas, for it is easier to get milk from a stone than his transport from a commanding officer. Altogether, the task was too great for the resources at hand. Now, the safety of any isolated post depends, not so much upon its natural possibilities of defence as upon the pressure brought to bear upon the enemy in other quarters which keeps him busy, immobilises his reserves, and prevents him from concentrating on the weak garrison. Such pressure was not brought to bear; could not be brought to bear as matters stood; and the irregulars skilfully seized their chance of attack, and have succeeded in putting to their credit the capture of certain garrisons.

As against this the national forces have made a considerably greater number of prisoners by means of sweeps and searches. Such a state of affairs, however, cannot be unduly protracted, and there is a crying need for more men, better officers, and unlimited transport. The war can but end one way, but its duration depends upon the energy shown in conducting it, and every other consideration—political, financial, or otherwise—must be subordinated to the one purpose, if success is to be speedy and complete. More trained men, better officers, unlimited transport—these are the nation's needs.

ATTACK ON RATHKEALE.

LIMERICK, Sunday.

Again the irregulars have succeeded in striking a shrewd blow and escaping without being caught. On Saturday morning very early about 160 men attacked Rathkeale, a small town about 16 miles south-west of Limerick, which was held at the time by a garrison of about 50 national troops, 25 being in the Courthouse, and 25 in a barracks situate on a slight hill on the outskirts of the town. The barrack post held out against the attack, but the garrison of the Courthouse, after fighting for some time against heavy odds, were finally burnt out by the irregulars, who climbed on to the roof of an adjoining house, broke a hole in the slates, and poured in through the hole some gallons of petrol. A lighted brand soon set the whole Courthouse on fire, and its garrison were smoked out and yielded, complete with rifles and ammunition. One man was killed and two wounded.

Commandant Hogan has succeeded in taking another seven prisoners at Ballybunion. Suspecting that certain of the irregulars in that town had only just left it to hide in the ditches near by till the search was over, he returned suddenly and found his supposition correct.

There is a strong rumour that Sean Moylan has been captured near Kanturk. Newmarket, Millstreet, and Kanturk were the happy hunting grounds of this most dangerous irregular, who was a formidable organiser, a bitter foe, and a daring originator of plans of attack. He was nearly captured about a month ago by General Galvin in person. His companion was seized, but at the time it was not known that Moylan himself had only just turned a corner into a side road 200 yards away.

STATE OF THE COUNTRY.

At the King's Inns, Henrietta street, Dublin, yesterday, Mr. Justice Gordon, Vacation Judge, adjourned the hearing of several cases listed by reason of the fact that the parties concerned were not prepared to proceed with them owing to the state of the country and the dislocation of the ordinary transport and postal facilities.

COUNTY CAVAN VACANCY.

Our Bailieborough Correspondent writes:—The Farmers' Association is considering what line of action it will adopt in the event of a by-election for the seat rendered vacant by the death of President Griffith. Their chances in a straight fight would seem remote, as they were unable to win one seat out of three in the recent elections under the proportional representation scheme. The vast majority of the electors of the county are solidly behind the national Government.

NEW STEAMSHIP SERVICE.

A direct steamer service will be opened between France and Ireland on Tuesday next, when a steamer will leave Brest for Cork and Dublin.

LINEN RESEARCH.

Sir William McCormick, Chairman of the Department of Scientific and Industrial Research for Great Britain, and Mr. Frank Heath, Secretary, are paying a visit to Belfast on Thursday and Friday to inspect the work of the Linen Industry Research Association at Lambeg. They will meet members of the Northern Government and the heads of the linen industry in the province.

A ROADSIDE AMBUSH.

ATTACK ON A CHURCH PARTY.

THREE SOLDIERS KILLED.

OPERATIONS IN SLIGO

An ambush took place on Sunday morning at Bushfield, about seven miles from Nenagh, as the result of which three national soldiers and a youth named Thomas Hayes, aged 16 years, the son of Mr. Thomas Hayes, victualler, Mitchel street, Nenagh, lost their lives.

A party of about eighteen soldiers were going to Mass at Boher Church when fire was opened on them by about sixty irregulars from both sides of the road. The troops returned the fire, and it was at this time that young Hayes was killed. The troops were finally overpowered and all their equipment was taken from them.

The firing was fierce, and the scene, as it was described to our Nenagh representative by one of the wounded men, was heart-rending. The injured and the dying, he said, were scattered along the road near Boher Church. Father Noonan, of Boher, was quickly on the scene, and rendered spiritual aid.

Word was sent to the Nenagh Military Barracks, and troops and medical aid were despatched, and the wounded were taken to the Nenagh Hospital.

One of the soldiers, Private John Lynn, a married man, from Glasgow, was killed outright, while Corporal Moore, of Carlow, and Private Kehoe, of Dublin, died at about 9.30 p.m. in the hospital. Private Kehoe received four wounds, one of which penetrated his abdomen and another in the spine.

The injured are:—

Private Thomas Maguire, Belfast—slightly wounded in arm and thigh.

Private Denis Murphy, Limerick—wounded in arm.

Private Barney Maguire, Dublin—wounded in jaw.

Private Michael Murphy, Leix, Queen's County—wounded in the hand.

Private John Spencer, do.—wounded in left arm.

Private Edward O'Connor, 38 Talbot street, Dublin—wounded on right hand.

Fathers O'Halloran, C.C., and Roche, C.C., were in constant attendance on the dying men. A large number of people visited the hospital during Sunday evening.

General Mulcahy, Commander-in-Chief of the Forces, accompanied by General O'Duffy and Assistant M'Mahon, who were passing through Nenagh, visited the wounded in the hospital, and were met by the hospital staff.

Father M'Mahon, of Australia, speaking to our Nenagh representative, deeply deplored these sad happenings in the country. "I cannot," he said, "understand what is going on at present in the country. It is sad in the extreme."

The wounded are progressing as favourably as can be expected.

CAPTURES IN SLIGO.

BIG ENCIRCLING MOVEMENT.

Troops under the command of Major-General M'Keon and Brigadier-General Lawlor are carrying out a successful series of operations on a large scale, with Sligo as a base.

On Monday morning national troops advanced on the irregular headquarters at Rahelly from Sligo, Manorhamilton, Dromahair, Cliffoney, Kiltyclogher, and Bundoran, the columns from each area co-operating in an encircling movement on the large body of irregulars commanded by Messrs. W. Pilkington and Devins. Thirty prisoners were taken at Kiltyclogher. At Manorhamilton ten prisoners surrendered with their rifles. A motor car containing a large mine was also captured. Among the documents taken was a plan for an attack on Manorhamilton Barracks on Monday night. This plan was very complete, and contained the names of the men who were to take part in the attack.

The irregulars' armoured car, "Ballinalee," was engaged at Cliffoney on Monday. Long range firing took place. Eight or ten prisoners were taken, three of them being wounded.

The irregulars hurriedly vacated Rahelly House, leaving behind them beds, bedding, and miscellaneous stores, and a number of motor cars and bicycles. They retreated to a wood, which was later on shelled by an 18-pounder gun. Sniping continued until night set in, and all the time the encircling movement was being carried out, and the area in which the irregulars and their armoured car now are appears to be completely cut off.

"THE IRISH TIMES."

Subscribers whose papers are not now delivered by post are requested to inform the management of the "Irish Times" through the local Newsagent or News Correspondent in what agent's parcel they desire their copies to be enclosed. This is the most reliable means of securing the paper. Local agents will greatly oblige the management by taking every means in their power to bring this intimation under the notice of subscribers.

THE ERRIS FIGHT.

From details which have reached Sligo concerning the fierce engagement at Erris, North Mayo, it appears that Brigadier Neary, with an advance guard, came in contact with a party of irregulars, and in the fight that ensued Brigadier Neary was captured. He subsequently made his escape, having shot one of his guard. He went for reinforcements to assist the advance guard, which, in the meantime, had been captured with the loss of five or six killed.

Commandant-General Farrelly has issued an order placing all public-houses in the area of the 2nd and 3rd Western Divisions "out of bounds" for troops.

National troops attacked a large force of irregulars at Dromahair on Sunday night, inflicting severe casualties. After the troops had left Dromahair to advance in the encircling movement on Rahelly, the irregulars returned and derailed two wagons, and otherwise damaged the railway. This blocks the line to Enniskillen and the entire Northern route. The damage, which is fairly considerable, is being repaired.

A DUBLIN RAID.

BOOT FACTORY SEARCHED.

Yesterday morning a number of armed men, variously estimated at 20 to 30, took part in a raid upon Messrs. Winstanley's boot factory, at Back lane, Dublin. Several of them arrived in a motor car. Others "held up" people in the lane and at the approaches to the factory. A number of the men entered the offices and presented revolvers at the staff. Others tried to effect an entrance to the storeroom, where a large and valuable stock is kept, but they failed.

A little later people in the street observed a few of the raiders leaving the factory, carrying away boots—not more than a couple of pairs. The men dispersed. Later there was much activity about the place on the part of national troops.

TALLAGHT CAMP ATTACKED.

Another attack was made on Tallaght Camp on Monday night, but no casualties are reported.

The attack was opened with revolver and rifle fire from the southern side of the aerodrome at 12 o'clock.

After about twenty minutes, the attackers retired.

WATER SUPPLY CUT OFF.

There has been a fresh outbreak of activity by irregulars in Kiltimagh district, where General Lawlor six weeks ago took over 30 prisoners. The water supply to the town has been cut off, the main pipe from the reservoir having been smashed. A railway porter was visited by irregulars at his house and charged with spying and carrying despatches. He had to leave the town yesterday.

An irregular leader from the Balla district named Roughneen was captured yesterday and removed to [illegible]

FROM TO-DAY'S LONDON PAPERS.

LORD CURZON'S VISIT TO PARIS.

ENTENTE AT STAKE.

"THE TIMES" OF TO-DAY SAYS:—

Lord Curzon has gone to Paris with a heavy responsibility upon his shoulders. Upon the outcome of his mission there depend issues much larger than the particular means to be taken for the protection of the freedom of the Straits or than the whole controversy between Greece and Turkey. The permanent relations between England and France are of far higher moment than either, and the character of these relations for a long time to come may be determined by his success or by his failure. The Entente is at stake, and all its friends and enemies outside this island know that it is at stake, and have their eyes rivetted upon Paris accordingly.

The Cabinet, we are told, yesterday maintained their original decision that the Kemalist forces shall not be allowed to cross into Europe, and express their conviction that they can be so prevented by naval action alone. They intend, it is added, that the neutral zones, as delimited at the time of the armistice, shall be preserved inviolate. It remains to be seen how this determination is to be accommodated with Kemal's plans. The correspondent of the Associated Press in Constantinople reports that the Turkish leader yesterday asked the Allies to permit him to pass into Thrace—the very step which the British Cabinet rightly holds to be inadmissible—and the same correspondent adds that Kemal's representative in Constantinople has informed the High Commissioner that the Angora Government cannot discuss the question of the Dardanelles without the presence of delegates from the Soviet Government and from the Ukraine.

The best answer to excessive Kemalist demands is the speedy conclusion, and the speedy announcement, of a complete agreement between England and France. A correspondent now confirms the prediction that we made the other day, that German officers would not be slow to tender their counsel and their service to their old allies, the Turks. All this makes it more and more evident that the French and English Governments must keep the larger implications of the situation well in view, and make sure that whatever complications may arise will be faced in the same temper on the Seine and on the Thames. We trust that Lord Curzon has gone on his great errand in this spirit, and that the disposition of the French Government will prove to be as conciliatory as is that of the British people.

REPARATIONS.

A STEP FORWARD.

The Reichsbank has agreed to guarantee the six months' Treasury bonds demanded of Germany without any provisio that the bonds may be renewed up to a period of eighteen months, observes The Times, in its editorial comments. As a result, it is felt in well-informed quarters that a solution of the difficulties which revealed themselves during the abortive discussions in Berlin between the German Government and the Belgian delegates can now be reached. This view was a factor in the recovery which took place in the markets yesterday.

Unwarrantably free use has been made of the name of the Bank of England in connection with the offer now made by Germany. It has been rumoured that the Bank of England has, directly or indirectly, guaranteed the payment of the German Treasury bonds. These reports are without foundation. The President of the Reichsbank visited London at the end of last week for the purpose of discussing the banking aspect of the situation, and to arrange a purely banking transaction, such as might be entered into between any two central banks. But it should be clearly understood that there has never been any question of the Bank of England, which is a private institution, participating in any way in a guarantee of the German bonds.

MURDER OF DR. MURPHY.

BRUTAL JEW IN TURKISH UNIFORM.

In a message from Malta The Times Correspondent gives further particulars of the murder of Dr. Murphy, the Irish octogenarian physician, in Smyrna. It would now appear (he says) to be definitely settled that the Smyrna fire was kindled in three quarters, and spread towards the quay, where the people had gathered. It is stated by some refugees that fewer than six hundred houses were standing on Thursday last. Among the refugees is the wife of Dr. Murphy. He had formerly been in the Indian Service, and for many years had been settled in Smyrna, where he was known for his philanthropy.

It is said that he met his death at the hands of a Russian Jew, a soldier in the Turkish Army. This man, after receiving from the doctor all the coin there was in the house and a cheque for £2,000, struck him down with his sword, and hurled pieces of valuable crockery at him. The soldier then commanded Mrs. Murphy to play the piano. She fled, pursued by the soldier, but was succoured by an Allied patrol. The doctor was taken to hospital, where he died.

RISK OF RESIGNATION.

A rate of 20 per cent. was quoted in the London Insurance market yesterday to cover the risk of the resignation of Mr. Lloyd George from the position of Prime Minister before the end of the year, states The Times. The rate is equivalent to odds of 5 to 1 against the contingency, and compares with 15 per cent. recently quoted.

THE STOCK EXCHANGE.

The receipt of news that was regarded as giving a more favourable turn to the Near Eastern situation, coupled with the latest reparation development, says The Times, imparted a brighter tone to the Stock markets yesterday. The preceding fall in values had left markets ripe for a rally on any improvement in the political outlook, as the closing days of the past account were marked by a fair amount of closing of bull commitments and the opening of some bear positions. As a rule, closing quotations were the best of the day. The carry-over was arranged on the basis of about 6 per cent. for Home Rails, 4½ to 5½ per cent. for Foreign Rails, and 5 to 7 per cent. for Industrials.

SLIGO TRAIN HELD UP.

The irregulars are still in force in Leitrim, and on Monday evening, while a big cattle special train was running between Collooney and Manorhamilton, an attempt was made to derail it. The train was running down a rather steep incline, and the driver found the signals at a turning against him. He applied the brakes and was unable to pull up in time, and when the train rounded the corner it crashed through the gates on the level crossing. Irregulars were on both sides of the line, and opened a fierce fusillade on the train. The manager of the line, Mr. S. C. Little, was on the footplate of the engine, and narrowly escaped the bullets which pattered on the engine. The train was brought to a stand-still before it reached a part of the line that had been pulled up. Parleying followed, and after a few hours' delay it was allowed to proceed.

COUNTRY'S KEY INDUSTRY

LABOUR'S PLAN FOR COMPULSORY TILLAGE.

FARMERS' LOSSES ON CROPS.

GOVERNMENT WILLING TO APPOINT A COMMISSION.

The most important debate in the Provisional Parliament yesterday was on the state of the farming industry. A Labour member suggested that a stated minimum of the arable land on every holding should be tilled.

In support of the proposal, it was pointed out that, since 1819, 370,000 acres had reverted to grazing, and that 10,000 agricultural labourers were out of employment.

The members of the Farmers' Party said that any form of compulsion would be a deadly blow to the country's key industry. The average loss last year and this year on tillage operations was £10 an acre.

The Minister of Agriculture expressed the opinion that there would be no satisfactory increase in the area under cultivation until tillage work yielded a reasonable profit.

He indicated, however, that he was willing to consult the various parties about the terms of reference to a Commission that would inquire into the state of agriculture. On this understanding the Labour Party's motion was withdrawn.

Among the other subjects discussed were the powers of Parliament and the introduction of adult suffrage.

TILLAGE PROBLEM.

LABOUR'S DEMANDS.

Mr. Thomas Nagle moved:—"That it is essential that an order should be made enforcing that a stated minimum of the arable land on each agricultural holding shall be tilled." He said that there were at least 10,000 unemployed agricultural labourers in Ireland, who would be soon in a bad way unless something was done by the Dail to assist them. A few years ago the British Government, under the provisions of the Corn Production Act, got the Irish farmers to increase their tillage in order to produce food for the people of England. He thought the farmers ought to be equally willing now to till their land in order to save the labourers from dying by starvation.

Between the years 1919 and 1921 the amount of tillage in Ireland had been reduced by 370,000 acres. As a result of that 10,000 men had been unemployed. He suspected that the farmers would object to the motion, as they would object to anything that emanated from Liberty Hall. A farmer had said that there were not sufficient lamp-posts in Ireland on which to hang the agitators of Liberty Hall. (Laughter.)

Mr. Gaffney seconded the motion.

Mr. T. M. Burke (farmer) said that it was desirable that the House should be cautious before it passed a measure of this kind. The farming industry was not paying at present, and if this motion were adopted by the House it would be compelling farmers to incur expenses in the employment of labour, the purchase of machinery, and artificial manures which would deprive them of any advantages that they had derived during the war years.

To do what the motion asked would be to strike a deadly blow at the stability of the key industry of the country. The average loss which the farmer sustained last year and this year was about £10 an acre. People would say that the farmers had had several years of "profiteering." As a general rule, any profit that was made during those years was invested in lands that were purchased at extravagant prices, which it would take years to put on a paying basis.

The proposal to ask men to till lands that were unsuitable for tillage would have no result but to convert a credit balance into a debit balance. If the Government had any policy with regard to agriculture, that policy should be one that would help instead of militating against the industry. The only way to get the farmers to increase their tillage was to guarantee them against loss.

QUESTION OF DEMAND.

Mr. Gorey (Farmers' Party) asked what particular crop and for what particular article produced by the farmers was the demand made at the present moment? The number of articles of food produced by the farmers was limited. Tillage was all very well, but what crop did the Labour Party seek to make a case for? Did they make a case for oats, for wheat, for barley, or for potatoes? The Labour Party did not eat oats—(laughter)—and, so far as wheat was concerned, the product of Irish wheat was not in demand when a white flour was available.

If there was a market for barley the farmers would be glad to produce more barley. What the Labour Party aimed at was more tillage and the production of corn crops, so that when the harvest came they could put the farmers with their backs to the wall and tell the farmers they would have to pay a certain wage. And if the farmer did not comply, the reply was to put a match to his property.

A Voice—"That is wrong."

Mr. Gorey—No, it is not wrong; there are men here from Cork, from Waterford, and from Kildare and Carlow, and they could tell you that they have seen the fires blazing in the country.

It was well known, he added, that last September and October the farmers had to ask for protection for their corn, cattle, and produce, and for protection to restore some semblance of order in the country. The Labour Party had increased unemployment in their efforts to keep up high wages. There was talk about millions for the relief of unemployment—they talked about millions now where they talked about pounds years ago. Where was all that expenditure going to lead?

The farmers were the best judges of their own business, and, if they were not, then their lives had been a failure; but the Labour Party asked that Dail to take away all the liberty of the farmer, to deprive him of liberty of choice in what was going to be called a free country. He asked the deputies to vote against the motion, on the ground, among others, that there were many other ways of meeting the problem, as, for instance, the reclamation of the thousands of acres of waste land in the country which had gone out of cultivation since 1840.

Mr. Davin (Labour) said that some deputies appeared to have Liberty Hall on the brain. (Laughter.) He supported the motion, because he believed that the real independence of this country could never be secured until her economic independence had been won. Unless they developed the economic resources of Ireland, and became independent of Great Britain, they were never going to put up the real fight for Irish freedom.

Mr. Wilson (Kildare) (Farmers' Party) deprecated the introduction of any recriminations into the debate. They had come into that Dail not to fight, but to co-operate, so that by the united efforts of Labour and the farmers they might make the country a proper country to live in. In the County Wicklow, of which he was a representative, they had grown oats and sold the crop at a loss. Therefore, there was no use in talking in the strain of those who supported this motion. If the farmers were left to themselves they would do the best they could to make the country more prosperous by the united efforts of themselves and their Labour friends.

COMMISSION PROPOSED.

Mr. Corish (Wexford) admitted that he was not surprised at the farmers being averse to the motion. He thought that the Government should set up a commission to go into the whole question of the agricultural industry, and he suggested that the mover of the resolution should adopt that policy.

Mr. Doyle (Wexford) stated that unless something came to the aid of agriculture no farmer would increase his area of tillage. Every acre of oats produced in County Wexford to-day meant a loss of £2 to the producer. They were producing now under as expensive a régime as existed in the years 1917, '18, and '19. In those years they got double the present prices, whereas labour had not become cheaper.

A Labour Deputy declared that every farmer should be able to increase his tillage by 20 per cent.

Mr. McGuinness (Longford) appealed to the Labour Deputies to leave the farmers alone at present, and to direct their attention to the graziers, who were the drones, and who were the persons who were leaving food scarce in the land. The farmers' sons who brought freedom to the country deserved the untilled land. He appealed to the Government to bring in a Land Act which would deal with this question. He would raise his voice against any section of the nation being coerced. They should not copy English methods in this matter.

Mr. Johnson said that they were very conscious of the failure even of labourers who got land and were only grazing it. Even their holdings ought to be tilled. They believed that it was necessary for the country to have the land tilled to a definite degree, and that the future of the country must be based upon the worker, whether he was an owner or not. They were told that Ireland could produce more food than it wanted, yet there were people crying for food. He would go a long way in agreeing to some kind of restriction upon the imports of food while Irish produce remained on the hands of the producers. They wished to avoid a conflict in Ireland between producers and consumers, because it was damning to the best interests of the country as well as to those of the farmers and workers. If the proposition of Mr. Corish were agreed to, he would suggest to the mover of the resolution to withdraw it.

The Minister of Agriculture said that the Government would be prepared to assist an inquiry into the question. Compulsory tillage was introduced in 1917, but it was a totally different matter to introduce it now. It was introduced then under the threat of famine, but he did not think that there was any such threat now. He thought that there would be no satisfactory increase of tillage until tillage came to pay. Everybody recognised that there were abuses at present, but they would not be removed by compulsion to till. The completion of land purchase would do more to increase tillage than anything that could be done by resolution. It must be a gradual growth if it was to be efficient, otherwise they robbed the farmer without enriching the labourer.

After further discussion, the motion was withdrawn on the understanding that the Minister of Agriculture would consult with the various parties as to the drafting of terms of reference of an inquiry into the conditions of agriculture.

RAILWAY COMMISSION.

Mr. Davin asked the Minister for Industry and Commerce whether he had yet received a report or reports from the Railway Commission; if so when it or they would be placed at the disposal of the Dail; and whether the Government had arrived at any decision on their policy in respect to the future control of the railways.

The Minister of Industry said that majority and minority reports had been received, but there had not been an opportunity of reading them and deciding when they would be published. He expected that it would be in the near future.

Mr. Davin asked whether, in view of the fact that partial reports had been already published in the Press, did not the Minister think it advisable that these reports should be published for the information of members of that House.

The Minister of Industry said that when the Government had the opportunity of looking at the whole thing they would say when they would be able to publish these reports.

Mr. Johnson asked whether it was within the discretion of the Ministry to say whether they would publish the reports of a Commission that was set up by themselves. It was not the common practice.

The Minister of Industry said that the reply given to the question was as to "when" the reports would be published.

IMPORTED FLOUR.

Mr. O'Day asked the Minister of Industry and Commerce whether he had considered the question of restricting the importation of foreign milled flour during such time as Irish flour mills were wholly or partially idle; and, if so, whether he would state the policy of the Government on the proposal.

Mr. Magrath said that the matter was one which arose in connection with negotiations on a question of wages between the employers and employés of the Irish flour mills. No Government decision had been arrived at, but it was proposed to discuss the matter with the parties concerned this week.

Mr. Davin asked whether the Minister was aware that a person named White had approached English millers stating that he was acting under the Provisional Government and was seeking a supply of flour for the Southern district of Ireland, and was saying that there was a great shortage at a time when the mills had full stocks and were working short time.

Mr. Magrath said that he had no knowledge of the matter, but he would make inquiries.

PARLIAMENT'S POWERS.

Mr. Thomas Johnson moved—"That this Dail, whose authority is derived from the people of Ireland, acknowledges no limitation upon its power to make laws for the peace, order, and good government of Ireland, except such limitations as are applicable to the Parliament referred to in Clause 1 of the Articles of Agreement for a Treaty between Great Britain and Ireland, signed on the 6th of December, 1921, and approved by Dail Eireann on January 7th, 1922."

He said that there had been quite a number of unofficial and semi-official statements tending to minimise the power and authority of the Dail. The suggestion had been made that it was the function of that House to oversee the administration, and that its chief work was to see to the passing of a Constitution, and that everything else might go by the board. That had not been stated definitely and officially, but there had been official and unofficial remarks tending in that direction, and he had thought it desirable that the House should have an opportunity of recording its own view of its powers, hence that motion.

Apart from the fact that the people, who elected them—their views in the matter should prevail—believed that they were electing a Parliament which would have power to enact legislation, his views of the powers of that House were fortified by the use of the words "The King's Most Excellent Majesty in Council." Those words showed that the House was a Parliament in the view, at any rate, of the British Government, and that, frankly and honestly, in that view, it was so set up by virtue of the Act called the Irish Free State Agreement Act.

DOUBLE AUTHORITY.

At any rate, in the judgment of the last Dail, the call for an election in the twenty-six counties was counter-signed by the British Government, so that they had a double authority under that Act. In a particular clause, it was stated that members elected to this Parliament had power to make laws. He did not suppose that there would be any doubt in the minds of the Ministers, when their attention was drawn to particular words and sections in the Act which embodied the Articles of Agreement, as to the powers of that Parliament to enact legislation equally with the Parliament which was to be set up in the Articles of Agreement for a Treaty.

Mr. Corish seconded the motion.

Professor MacNeill moved, as an amendment, that the following words be added:—"And such limitations as are imposed on this Dail by the duty of giving effect with the least possible delay to the said Treaty, in accordance with the will of the people."

The Speaker pointed out that, under the Standing Orders, notice should have been handed in in writing before 11 o'clock the previous day of any amendment to a resolution, and, therefore, he feared that this amendment was out of order.

Mr. Johnson said that he would waive any objection to the amendment, and

Professor MacNeill said that the reason why he moved the amendment was because the motion was a declaratory one. He submitted that it could be read in two senses, and said that he had never heard in the history of any institution such assembly declaring limitations upon its own powers.

If they made any declaration, it was practical, not theoretical, limitations that they must be concerned with. The source of their powers was the action and intention of the Irish electors. Any declaration must be understood to concern practical limitations.

Mr. Johnson asked whether he had the six counties in mind.

THEORY AND PRACTICE.

Professor MacNeill said that that was another practical limitation. He agreed that that assembly was perfectly free to enter on any course of legislation which it proposed to itself so far as theory was concerned. But so far as practice was concerned, its first business was to create the public order that they all desired—public order in its widest sense. Its first and principal business was to clear the way and face that course of action which was necessary towards that end.

He hoped that it would be clear that his amendment was necessary. It was not in any way hostile to the intention of the original resolution, and he hoped that the mover and seconder would accept the amendment.

Mr. Hughes seconded the amendment.

Mr. Johnson expressed the view that, if the proposer of the amendment had been logical, he would have removed all words after "Ireland."

Mr. Cosgrave pointed out that there were Articles in the Agreement which were not cordially subscribed to by the representatives of both countries, but they undertook to carry them out honourably. The authority of the Dail, while it was a Provisional Parliament, was limited to certain acts and particular business. They did not limit its authority to tearing up the Treaty, but they maintained that it would be a breach of honour to do so, though the Dail could undoubtedly do it. That only was the extent to which any limitations were imposed on that Parliament, and these would pass away as soon as they carried out their part of the contract. They were, in fact, only limited by honour.

Mr. Johnson asked whether the agreement to suspend legislative authority had been published.

The President said that it was implied in the Free State Act.

Mr. Johnson—Have you power to set up a military force?

The President—Yes. It would, he said, be noticed that there were two Houses to the Parliament of the Free State, whereas that was but one House.

Mr. O'Shannon (Labour) stated that that assembly was either the Dail or it was not. They were all agreed that it was a Provisional Parliament, and that its term of office would expire at a certain date. The President, however, had said that there were certain things implied in the Free State Agreement Act. They could see no implication in that Act that would prevent that Parliament from doing certain things which they of the Labour Party believed that the country wanted it to do, and which they at least got direct mandates to do. They claimed that it was the right and duty of the Dail to do many other things besides controlling an Army and implementing a Constitution. There was no necessity to have a second House to do things which they asserted that Dail had the right to do. What was going to be done during the interval between the passing of the Constitution and the setting up of the Oireachtas? Were they going to legislate or not?

THE FIRST DUTY.

The Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Hogan) emphasised the fact that that assembly was completely a sovereign Parliament. It could tear up the Treaty and refuse to pass the Constitution, but while the Treaty was the policy of that House they must implement it by passing a Constitution. Their first duty was to lay the foundations of the State, and, whether they had the power or not, they were not going to let anything stand in their way. They had, in fact, no time for legislation, as they had only thirty working days in which to pass the Constitution.

Mr. Johnson said that it was conceivable that instead of thirty days ten days might be sufficient for passing the Constitution. They did not want the Dail to be tied by the suggestion that it had not power to do anything else. They wanted the work of legislation to go on.

The President explained that that could be done subsequently, but not concurrently.

The resolution as amended was then adopted unanimously.

IRISH GOODS.

Alderman William O'Brien moved:—

"That contracts for goods by the Government shall be made only with persons or companies who guarantee that the goods, if capable of being produced in Ireland, within a limit of preference to be hereafter specified, are of Irish manufacture and produced under fair conditions by trade union labour."

He said that during recent months instances had come to the knowledge of the Labour Party in which the Government had departed from the principle laid down in the motion. Articles such as brushes, cutlery, towels, which could have been procured in Ireland, were purchased abroad. There seemed to be no settled method of purchasing supplies of this kind. He understood that tenders were not asked for, and that there had been no stipulation that the goods were to be of Irish manufacture. He and his friends were more concerned with the future than with the past, and they asked that this matter be taken into account by the Government.

Mr. Gaffney seconded the motion.

Mr. Blythe, replying for the Minister of Industry and Commerce, said that the Government would recommend the House to pass a resolution that would be couched in somewhat similar terms. If this present motion were passed it could not be implemented, because it was not sufficiently specific. The Ministry were of opinion that the Minister of Industry and Commerce might confer with Alderman O'Brien and other leaders with the view of arriving at some idea as to what degree of preference might reasonably be given to Irish manufactured goods. He suggested that the motion should be withdrawn, and that it be left to the Minister concerned to deal with the matter.

Mr. Cosgrave said that the Minister for Local Government had already established a branch for dealing with Irish manufacture, and that the gentleman who was in charge of the branch had recently been in touch with the army authority. There was an idea that if Irish manufacturers were sure that they would get the preference in everything they could charge prices in excess of what was reasonable. If the motion were withdrawn, he thought the Ministry would be able to act in the spirit of it.

Alderman O'Brien accepted that assurance, and withdrew his motion.

The House adjourned at 6.30 p.m. until 3 p.m. to-day.

THE FRANCHISE.

SCOPE OF THE NEW REGISTER.

ADULT SUFFRAGE.

In the Provisional Parliament yesterday Mr. Blythe, Minister for Local Government, moved a long resolution relating to the franchise in which it was set out that the Dail was advised that the preparation of a new register of voters was a matter of urgent necessity, in view of the probability that an election of members to serve in the Chamber of Deputies (Dail Eireann) would be held as soon as possible after the Constitution of the Irish Free State had come into operation.

In the opinion of the Dail every election to the Chamber of Deputies should be conducted on the basis of adult suffrage, and, that being so, the resolution was that the Provisional Government be authorised and requested to cause a register of persons entitled to vote at elections of members of Parliament, and of persons entitled to vote at Local Government elections to be prepared, and to cause the preparation of such register to be begun immediately on the passing of the resolution.

The following modifications would be made in the existing electoral laws:—(a) The qualifying period shall be the period of six months ending on the 15th of October, 1922. (b) A person shall, without distinction of sex, be entered on the register as a Parliamentary elector if he or she is of full age, and not subject to any legal incapacity, and possesses the requisite residence qualification or the requisite business premises qualification. (c) The provisions of the existing electoral laws as to residence qualification and as to business premises qualification shall apply to all persons without distinction of sex.

400,000 NEW ELECTORS.

Mr. Blythe said that the register for the qualifying period, which ended on August 31st, 1921, was the register that was still in force, and under which the recent elections were held. That register was not a very good one, because there were on it the names of persons who were dead, or who had left the country. Besides that many persons who were entitled to vote had not their names on that register. With the admission of something like 400,000 new electors, apart from the persons who would come of age in the meantime, it would require about six and a half months to compile the new register. It would, therefore, be the middle of April before the new register was ready.

In view of a possible general election at any time before next August, it was necessary to proceed with the compilation of a new register. They did not know what political developments there might be within the Dail. If it should be found impossible to carry on till next August or so, when the new register would have been compiled, it would still be undesirable to put off the work of dealing with the register until then.

A large number of vacancies in the constituencies would occur, and even if there were no general election there would be by-elections, and there ought to be a register which would give every elector an opportunity of voting. The resolution was long, but the scope of it was narrow. It removed the disqualification of women, women of the age of 21, in occupation of premises of certain valuation.

Mr. O'Maille second the motion.

LABOUR VIEW.

Alderman O'Brien (Lab.) said that all the descriptions of qualifications spoken of by the Minister of Local Government should be swept away. The Labour members thought that the qualifying period should be very substantially reduced.

Mr. Johnson (Lab.) suggested that they should omit all reference to committing themselves to what the next Parliament should do.

Mr. Darrell Figgis (Ind.) suggested that had the proposal been brought up in another form it would have been much clearer than in its present shape. Every person on the register had the right to vote under the Representation of the People Act, 1918. The Minister of Local Government, in bringing the resolution before the Dail, had referred to a matter on which he did not appear to be accurate in his information. He said that if by-elections occurred during the course of the present Dail these by-elections would be filled on the new register. If that were so it was the first time in the history of representative assemblies where a number of members would be elected to an assembly, a large part of them being elected on one register and the remainder elected on a different register.

Mr. O'Higgins said that for reasons, of which they were all aware, it was quite possible that there would be a number of by-elections, and it was a question whether these elections should be carried out on an old register. As to the qualifying period, he agreed with the view that the period should be reduced. The principle of giving the franchise qualification to women on the same terms as to men was generally accepted by the House, and there was not likely to be any controversy about it. But if they were to go into the whole question of the electoral laws there would be serious differences of opinion, and it was felt better to hold over these matters until they were passing electoral laws.

It might be felt by some that the business premises qualification should be abolished altogether, while others might hold that a choice might be given as to whether a person would be registered in respect of his business premises or his residence. That was a debatable matter which might occupy a considerable time, and to which the Government could not ask the House to devote time before the passing of the Constitution. It was really a matter of making the scope of the motion as narrow as possible, so that it could be dealt with by resolution of the House.

The Speaker put the motion, which was passed nem con.

MR. COSGRAVE'S DOUBTS.

Mr. O'Brien said that the President told him last week that the question of the vacancies existing in certain constituencies would be on the Order Paper for Monday.

The President replied that the conditions in the country were scarcely suitable to the holding of elections. They had been informed by the Postmaster-General that conditions in the country were normal, but he was inclined to doubt that. (Laughter.)

SECONDARY TEACHERS.

The Minister of Education, in reply to Mr. T. O'Connell (Galway), who asked whether he was aware that registered lay secondary teachers were on the average paid no more than £180 per annum, had no pensions, and no security of tenure, and when he proposed to take steps to remedy this unsatisfactory state of affairs, said that £180 might be accepted as a middle figure, but that figure did not take cognisance of the interim grant which came to £50 for each eligible principal teacher. As to the second part of the question, he intimated that education must occupy the attention of the Dail as soon as national conditions permitted.

WHERE PRICES FALL.—Butter has been reduced in price from £5 10s. to £4 10s. a firkin in County Cavan markets. The two-pound loaf has been reduced from 6d. to 5½d. in Bailieborough.

Direct labour in County Cavan is extended for a year to give the Government time to formulate an All-Ireland Roads Scheme.

Yesterday at Strabane market pork realised 107s. 6d. a cwt.; eggs 2s. a dozen, and butter in lump 1s. to 1s. 3d. a pound.

At the Blessington Fair, beef was sold for 45s. a cwt., and store cattle at from £12 to £20. Sheep sold well, ewes fetching from 50s. to 70s. each.

Kildare Fair was largely supplied with fat cattle, which were down in price by £4 to £5 a head. Best beef made 42s. a cwt.; second quality 38s. to 40s.; cow beef 30s. to 34s.

At an inquest in Lifford respecting the death of Miss Rose Dunn, Strabane, who was killed in a motor collision, a verdict of accidental death was returned. The driver of the other motor car was exonerated.

POSTAL STRIKE.

IMPROVEMENTS IN SERVICES CLAIMED.

While there was no outward change in the postal strike yesterday, there were indications of an improvement in the restricted services which are being carried on by the Post Office.

At the Rink, a long queue of people, young and old, waited to collect correspondence. Inquiries in official quarters showed that there were actually 39 men on duty in the Rink. An Irish Times representative was informed that these men do sufficient overtime to make their work equal to that of twice their number. In addition, it was stated that the Post Office has applications from many more who desire to take up duty. It is not pretended that the service is by any means complete, but it is gradually improving. The staff at the Telegraph Office, it was stated, is increasing, and now numbers twelve. A number of operators have also returned to work at the Telephone Exchange.

In the course of a statement to an Irish Times representative yesterday, a representative of the Executive of the Irish Postal Unions said that they did not propose to pursue the rather grotesque statements of the Post Office as to the maintenance of normal services. It was interesting to note, however, that, of the 26 offices at which, it was alleged, despatches were made on Monday, there were about a dozen people at work, including postmasters. To swell the list, 26 County Dublin rural suboffices were included, at all of which the delivery postmen were on strike. The official statement showed that "45 pages of Press work were disposed of," but the normal number of pages, continued the Postal Unions' representative, was from 700 to 800.

"Telegrams are not subject to delay," proceeded the official report, but a telegram was handed in at the Union headquarters on Monday, which was despatched on 12th inst. and delivered on the 19th. The public, he said, were the best judges of the question—Is the service normal?

The Postmaster-General, he continued, was simply throwing dust in their eyes, not so much with a view to deceive them, as to catch the eye of some members of the union in isolated places, and thus cause alarm. The unions, however, had taken effective counter-measures.

A number of officials at the Central Telegraph Office due back from their annual leave duly reported for picket duty. None offered their services to the Department.

THE LATEST POSITION.

According to an official statement the position yesterday was as follows:—

The staffs at offices in Dublin and the Provinces have been further increased. Forty-nine officers are now performing duty at the Rink and a dozen at Amiens street Telegraph Office. Those officers are the equivalent of at least eighty and twenty respectively, in view of the amount of overtime worked, and the energy displayed.

Reports received yesterday indicate that three postmen have returned to duty at Monasterevan, and one other has notified his intention of resuming. At Greystones three indoor officers have notified resumption; at Castleblayney all indoor and outdoor officers have resumed; and at Carlingford all the postmen have returned.

The bags despatched from the Rink totalled 159, of which 16 were despatched by day boat to England, and 86 by night boat.

Despatches to the following offices were also made:—Lucan, Leixlip, Maynooth, Clonsilla, Kilcock, Mullingar, Athlone, Ennis, Limerick, Kilmallock, Listowel, Dundrum (Tip.), Gooldscross, Knocklong, Charleville, Tuam, Galway, Blackrock, Dun Laoghaire, Killiney, Dalkey, Bray, Greystones, Shankhill, Kilternan, Carrickmines, Cabinteely, Dundrum, Rathfarnham, St. Margaret's, Oldtown, Garristown, Ashford, and Kilsallaghan. All correspondence on hands for offices in the Six County area and Co. Donegal was also disposed of.

All bags reaching the Broadstone, Amiens street and Westland Row Stations were conveyed to the Rink for disposal, and many bags from outlying offices were received by road. Thousands of letters were handed out to callers at the Rink, or otherwise delivered.

Central Telegraph Office.—Notwithstanding the sabotage of the previous night, when Cross-Channel wires were cut, 350 telegrams were accepted over the counter and dispatched. A couple of hundred messages were received for callers.

Telegrams delivered in and around Dublin totalled about 1,650, and hundreds of telegrams for places to which the wires have been cut were forwarded by post.

The Department to-day is again in a position to give an expeditious Cross-Channel telegraph service.

Another official statement issued yesterday states:—

Irish postal wages were reduced by the British Government when the British cost of living figures showed a decrease. The Irish postal workers did not go on strike. The Irish postal workers did not even threaten to go on strike.

They go on strike when the Irish Government pays them wages based on an ascertained Irish cost of living figure. These wages are higher than the wages they would be getting if there had been no change of Government. They would not have gone on strike if the British Government were still in possession.

THE QUESTION OF PAY.

The Joint Executives have issued a statement, in the course of which they say:—In yesterday's papers the Postmaster-General again returns to the question of the wages paid in the Post Office. Stripped of all bonus questions, the following are the rates of pay in the different grades of the Post Office:—

CLASS III. OFFICES.

	Postmen.	Telephonist.	Sorting Clerk and Telegraphist (Male).
Wages on entrance	18/-	14/-	16/-
Wages on 10 years' service	29/6	29/-	36/-
Highest wages obtainable	34/-	29/-	49/-

CLASS I.

	Postmen.	Telephonist.	Sorting Clerk and Telegraphist (Male).
Wages on entrance	20/-	16/-	18/-
Wages on 10 years' service	34/6	31/-	42/-
Highest wages obtainable	40/-	33/-	61/-

(Class III. Offices mentioned above include all Post Offices in the Free State, with the exception of Dublin and six others. Dublin is in Class I.)

The maximum wages of the classes referred to above are only reached after long service—in many cases over 20 years—and the figure set out is the highest which can be obtained in the particular class, and is held only by men of from 25 to 40 years' service.

The following is the scale of pay for skilled workmen employed in the Engineering Branch:—

	Skilled Workman (Unestablished).	Skilled Workman (Class I.).
Wages on entrance (20 years of age)	26/-	44/-
Highest wages obtainable	42/-	52/-

The bonus does not now, nor did it at any time, represent the actual increase in the cost of living, while in many cases it falls far below even one-half of the Government's "produced" figure. It is clear, therefore, that if the basic wage is insufficient the addition of a bonus which does not represent the rise in the cost of living leaves the position worse than before any increase in the cost of living took place.

The above figures are the best indication of the inadequacy of the wages of the Post Office clerks, and prove conclusively that the men and women concerned cannot afford a reduction on such meagre earnings. Contrasted with every other branch of the Civil Service, or with the other public professions, the financial position of the Post Office worker is becoming gradually worse, and all on account of the inadequacy of the basic wage.

TELEGRAPH SERVICE.

CONNECTION WITH BRITAIN RESTORED.

Telegraphic communication between Dublin and England was restored last evening.

Yesterday afternoon the Postmaster-General issued the following statement:—

"On Saturday morning last the Post Office received information that the strikers intended to cut all telegraphic and telephonic main lines in Dublin. On Sunday evening one section of the cross-Channel wires was cut, and yesterday the balance was cut so that this morning telegraphic communications are interrupted, but the Post Office anticipates a restoration before evening. This act of sabotage throws a curious commentary on the Union's pretence that the services maintained by the Post Office are a bluff. If, as they daily assert, they really believed that there was practically no telegraphic service being maintained they would not have gone to the trouble of cutting the wires. They cut them because they knew that an effective telegraphic service is being maintained."

THE STRIKE COMMITTEE ROOMS.

It is stated that at about 5.30 p.m. yesterday soldiers raided the headquarters of the Telegraph Strike Committee at the Moy Elta Hotel, and searched those who were present and scrutinised all papers and documents relating to the strike. Those who were in the rooms were told that they should leave the place, and were given until 8 o'clock to do so. Sentries were placed round the building, which is now occupied by the troops. The Strike Committee has found new quarters at the Carpenters' Hall, Lower Gloucester street.

THE COST OF LIVING.

PRICES IN THE NORTH.

The Departmental Committee appointed to inquire into the cost of living in Northern Ireland opened its sittings in the Parliament House, Belfast, yesterday, when figures relating to the cost of living in Belfast, and their comparison with other centres in the United Kingdom, were presented. Mr. J. H. Robb, K.C., M.P. (Chairman), presided.

Mr. J. D. M'Quiston, the secretary, explained that, owing to the fact that witnesses required some time to prepare their evidence, it had not been possible to arrange a sitting for Wednesday. Next Tuesday they hoped to have the evidence of the Belfast Women's Advisory Council and of the Belfast Labour Party, while on the following day it was hoped to have representatives of the Belfast District Committee of the Engineering and Shipbuilding Trades Federation.

Mr. John W. Milan, district organiser of the Electrical Trades' Union, giving evidence on behalf of the Belfast and North of Ireland members generally, reminded the Committee that the conclusions he had to place before it represented the closest approximation which was practicable to the average increases in the cost of maintaining in certain months of the current year, as compared with July, 1914, the same standard of living for a family dependent on wage-earnings in a town or city with 250,000 or more inhabitants.

BELFAST STATISTICS.

In the draft report of the Committee set up by the Provisional Government of Southern Ireland it was set out that the percentage increase in the cost of living of wage-earning classes between July 14, 1914, and June, 1922, was 85.2 per cent., and the increase between the former date and March, 1922, was 91.4 per cent. The British Board of Trade figures for June and March, 1922, were 80.0 per cent. and 86.0 per cent. respectively.

Proceeding, the witness said that in August, 1921, his attention was particularly drawn to the increased cost of living in Belfast, especially as regards foodstuffs, and the local Engineering and Shipbuilding Trades' Federation took steps to ascertain the prices of the food of a third class officer pre-war. This was taken as a fair basis of what should constitute a fair sustenance for the average adult worker. The method adopted was to present a form of invoice for the articles enumerated in their stipulated quantities to grocers and provision dealers throughout the city with a request that existing costs of the same rations be filled in. Having collected the various particulars, an average over the whole city was taken, with the result that the October, 1921, prices amounted to 16s., as compared with 6s. 2½d. in July, 1914, being an increase of 157 per cent. The Board of Trade "Gazette" figure of comparative food prices alone, over the same period, showed an increase of only 110 per cent.

THE WORST PERIOD.

He was of opinion that an official and unbiased investigation would cause a further reduction in retail prices, which, of course, would additionally confound any returns that he might prepare for last month. He was informed by farmers that their products, particularly killing beasts, were presently sold in Belfast markets at pre-war prices. He was satisfied that in July, 1914, the cost of living was slightly lower in Belfast than in several cities of a similar character throughout the Kingdom, but that about November, 1916, the curve line applicable to Belfast rose above that of the average Board of Trade cost of living index figures, and that the worst period of high prices in Belfast prevailed between August, 1920, and August, 1921.

In reply to a question, the witness said that when comparing prices he had taken into consideration the cost of electric lighting. He had accepted the official figures for clothing.

To Captain Leo Thomas, the witness said that he did not approve of the principle of fixing wages on the cost of living figures. There, however, should be something to go on in fixing a standard. Workers were now being brought to a worse position than before the war.

The witness agreed with Mr. L. A. Bulwinkle that the cost of foodstuffs showed a considerable difference as between Belfast and other towns in Northern Ireland. In one town—Londonderry—at a period of his personal investigation prices were higher than in Belfast.

FAMILY BUDGET.

These figures and the method of compilation being greatly criticised, the federation took other means of arriving at a comparison. They, therefore, decided to prepare a "family budget," i.e., a list of the necessities of life as actually used in a working man's home, and indicate pre-war and prices for October, when the return was compiled. Heads of households were invited to record 1914 and current prices for articles set forth. The average for July, 1914, was 13s. 6d., and that for last October 29s. 10½d., being an increase of 121 per cent. Regarding clothing, Board of Trade figures recorded an increase of 165 per cent. Still, comparing 1914 with October, 1921, figures, in the fuel and lighting group there was an increase of 158½ per cent., while rents had increased 77¼ per cent. If the average in the cost of all the foregoing items were combined, allowance being made for the increase in the prices of many commodities not mentioned, the resultant figure for October 1 was 130 per cent. as compared with July, 1914, for Belfast, as against 110 per cent. represented by the British Board of Trade Labour Gazette as an index figure for the United Kingdom.

Professor H. O. Meredith said that he thought that the witness should give fuller details regarding his contention that certain Irish produce could be purchased cheaper in cross-Channel towns than in Belfast. It would be a great advantage to the committee if particulars were given.

Mr H. Midgley said that it was common knowledge that Irish eggs could be bought cheaper in English markets than in Ireland.

Mr. Meredith argued that there ought not to be a general statement if the evidence was to be of any value, and Mr. Milan replied that in one case an individual to whom he addressed questionaires said in regard to eggs, that they were not labelled, and, therefore, he did not know the birthplace. (Laughter.) He favoured the Committee issuing a Majority Report in favour of working out the cost of living on the basis of the Board of Trade method. The fact of that Committee sitting had brought down prices during the past two months; particularly fruit to as much as about 20 per cent.

Miss Galway—Would the publication of an index figure allay discontent in Northern Ireland that people are paying more for food than elsewhere.

Witness—Yes, it would.

To Mr. F. Gilliland—There was more profiteering in home-produced articles than in the case of imported goods.

In answer to Mr. H. Midgley, witness believed the establishment of a municipal coal supply would materially reduce the price of that commodity.

Regarding potatoes, witness said that recently a consignment sent over from Belfast was purchased cheaper in Liverpool than they could be purchased in Belfast, and was brought back again to the benefit of the purchaser.

The inquiry adjourned till next Tuesday.

REV. ALEXANDER FULLERTON.

We regret to announce the death, at the ripe age of 83, of the Rev. Alexander Fullerton, which took place on Tuesday, 19th instant, at his residence, Dalkey, after a brief illness. Mr. Fullerton entered the Methodist ministry in 1860, and after 45 years of strenuous and successful work retired in 1905. FIRE IN PORTRUSH.

EXTENSIVE DAMAGE.

Damage estimated at £1,000 was caused by a fire which occurred on Monday night at the rear of the Trocadero (Messrs. H. G. Black and Sons) Restaurant in Main street, Portrush.

When about to close up the premises for the night, Mr. Harry Black observed smoke issuing from the storeroom, which was on the top of a two-storey building, and contained packing boxes, a new chocolate-making machine, and other stock.

The local Fire Brigade, under Mr. R. Carton, assisted by members of the R.U.C. and the Special Constabulary, rendered useful service. Meantime, the Coleraine Fire Brigade, which had been summoned, arrived and gave assistance in extinguishing the fire, which, thanks to the efforts of the volunteer workers, was well under control.

The upper portion of the storeroom was gutted, but the flames were kept from spreading seriously.

About twelve o'clock, probably owing to the fusing of the wires, the electricity supply was interrupted, and Portrush was plunged into darkness.

ORIEL HOUSE SHOOTING.

THE JURY'S VERDICT.

Dr. Louis A. Byrne and a Dublin jury held an inquest yesterday at St. Vincent's Hospital relative to the death of Anthony Dean, a member of the staff of Oriel House, who was shot dead there on last Sunday evening.

Mr. John O'Byrne (instructed by Mr. David O'Flaherty) appeared for the State.

Mr. Francis Dean, a brother, gave evidence of identification. He said that his brother was 27 years of age and was unmarried. He was attached to the Criminal Investigation Department, Oriel House.

Private Joseph Sherlock, Oriel House, stated, in reply to Mr. O'Byrne, that at 9.45 p.m. on Sunday, while he was on duty, the bell rang and he opened the door. Two young men entered. They said that they wanted to make a report about a stolen motor car, and he escorted them into the office, which is off the door. As he turned round to close the front door two men approached and ordered him to put his hands up. The men had two Webley revolvers. He made an attempt to put up his hands and tried to grapple with one of the men. The second man kept firing away at him, and a bullet passed through the collar of his coat. He had a .45 revolver on him, but did not get it for some time. He got behind a box in the hall and saw the two men run out towards Westland row Station. He fired two shots at them without effect. He could not identify or describe the men.

Inspector Michael Finn, C.I.D., Oriel House, stated that at 9.45 on Sunday night two men were directed into the inquiry office, where he was. Having procured some paper to take particulars from the men, he looked up and saw one of them holding a revolver to his head. He quickly stooped behind the counter, and a shot was fired. He got up and saw the man fire at Dean, who was standing outside the counter. The bullet struck him on the right temple. The witness ran up stairs, took cover, and fired five shots from his revolver at five men who were standing at the hall-door. Some members of Oriel House pursued them along Westland row.

Mr. O'Byrne—Did the deceased man only receive one shot? As far as I could see; I saw the revolver put to his head. I saw the man fire and I saw the deceased fall.

How long did the whole occurrence take? About four minutes.

Further questioned, the witness said that all the men got away. He could identify two of the men, especially the man who shot Constable Dean.

Dr. Stella Moore, St. Vincent's Hospital, stated that the man was dead when brought to the hospital. There was an entrance wound on the back at the right side, with an exit wound on the right side of the chest. Another entrance wound was found on the head behind the right ear, the bullet being lodged in the brain. Either wound might in itself prove fatal. She attributed death to shock and hemorrhage.

To the Coroner—The bullet that struck the body went right through.

Mr. O'Byrne suggested that the jury should return a verdict of wilful murder.

The jury found that death was due to shock and hemorrhage, caused by the wounds described, and that the deceased "was killed in the course of what he believed to be his duty by a shot fired by some person or persons unknown."

Mr. O'Byrne, for the authorities, expressed regret at the death of Mr. Dean, who, he said, was a most efficient officer.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

THE POSTAL STRIKE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Why does not the Post Office increase letter and card postage to sixpence during the continuance of the strike? This would reduce correspondence to manageable proportions.

In the smaller towns where the post offices are closed a small committee of business men might be found to take and seal the bags of letters and forward them to the usual centres. Suitable men for the purpose could be reached easily through the medium of the Chamber of Commerce, Dublin.—Yours, etc.,

"BUSINESS."

Dublin, September 19th, 1922.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—It is a relief to read the two excellent letters in your issue of to-day. Although I have not a shade of right to intrude in the matter, I sincerely hope that the suggestion in the first letter will be adopted, and that the staff will return to the duties which are so essential to all of us. Meanwhile, at the inquiry suggested by the second letter as to "profiteering," most of us could supply some astonishing figures. The civil servants are not the only victims.—Yours, etc.,

R. BURKE.

Dublin, September 19th, 1922.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—The Government says that houses can be got at 5s. 2d. per week; the unions say, 19s. 2d. per week. The other figures quoted have a similarly wide difference, and the public must judge for themselves. Is the country devoid of business men who could do something? The Postmaster-General and the unions simply publish daily statements contradicting each other in childish fashion. Could not a committee be formed immediately from the principal concerns in the country before the few remaining industries are utterly ruined? The attitude of the business people for the past week in tolerating such a state of affairs reflects no credit on them, and this policy of drift is bound to react on those concerned with direful consequences.—Yours, etc.,

"COMMON-SENSE."

THE ROYAL HIBERNIAN MILITARY SCHOOL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—It is interesting to note, in reference to the Hibernian Military School, that St. Thomas's Parish contributed £499 after sermons in 1767, 1768 and 1769 for the foundation of the School. The next parish was St. Ann's, a long way behind.—Yours, etc.,

SAILORS' RAILWAY FARES.

COMPANIES' CONCESSION.

The Admiralty announce that cheap travelling concessions for naval officers and men on leave have been made by the railway companies of Great Britain, and will come into operation on October 1.

Return tickets, first class for officers (with a minmum fare of 5s.), and second or third class for ratings, will be issued at a single fare and a third for the double journey, between all stations in Great Britain, and stations or ports in Great Britain and ports in Ireland, via direct steamer (including Belfast, via Stranraer and Larne), except that for officers the tickets will be issuable for journeys to London only. Officers will be required to surrender a form of application in order to obtain a cheap ticket, and, for ratings, the tickets will be issued to men who travel in uniform and produce their liberty tickets. The latter will be stamped by the booking clerk, in proof of the issue of a cheap ticket, and no further cheap tickets will be obtainable after the liberty ticket has been so stamped.

These concessions will at present apply to officers on the active list, including those in the Coastguard and officer-instructors attached to R.N.V.R. Headquarters; to Naval and Coastguard ratings and Marines; and to petty officer instructors, armourers, and gunnery instructors (appointed and paid by the Admiralty) attached to R.N.V.R. Headquarters.

DUBLIN TRADE DISPUTES.

Inquiries at the office of the Irish Transport Workers' Union yesterday elicited the fact that the 650 members of that body concerned in the building trade dispute are still out of work because of their refusal to accept a reduction of 2d. per hour on their wages.

Other members of this branch of the union are unemployed because there is nothing to do, but over 2,000 are fully employed at the prevailing rate of wages, pending a settlement of the present dispute.

In connection with the refusal of the printing sections attached to the Irish Transport Union to accept a reduction in the wages of those employed in Dublin book and jobbing offices nothing new transpired yesterday. Pending a conference between all sections of the workers and master printers, work is being carried on as usual.

NEWRY PRINTING DISPUTE.

The proprietors of two Newry tri-weekly newspapers and Messrs. W. and S. Magowan, printers and stationers, having served notice on their employés for a reduction of 16s. per week in their wages—the reduction to be in three instalments between now and January—a conference was held yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the Ministry of Labour, Belfast, in the Imperial Hotel, Newry. Mr. Gageby and Miss Daunt represented the Ministry, and Mr. Cassidy, Organising Secretary for Ireland, the printers. The proceedings, which lasted over two hours, proved abortive. The notices served take effect on Saturday, so that in the event of an eleventh-hour settlement not being reached, Newry, while the dispute lasts, will be without any local papers.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Tuesday.

WHEAT—Spot market easy, 1c. to 1½c. lower. Exporters engaged 25 boatloads of wheat, 40 of corn, and 10 of rye. Receipts—Atlantic 416,000, last year 1,220,000; clearances 327,000, last year 715,000. According to Bradstreet's report the visible supply of wheat increased 9,075,000 bushels on the week, and the visible supply of corn East of the Rockies increased 1,090,000 bushels on the week.

SUGAR easy at the quotation; Porto Rico nominal. Futures steady, 3 points down to 3 up. October, 2.96; December, 3.11; March, 2.95; May, 3.06. 19,000 bags of Cuban sugar were sold to-day to refiners at 4.61 for prompt shipment.

COTTON opened steady, 8 to 17 points higher, and further advanced on firm cable advices, covering of shorts, and Wall street support. Better reports of the Near East situation, improved Manchester advices, and buying by spot houses and New Orleans interests were helpful factors; but later there was a set-back, due to smaller exports and Southern selling, the market closing barely steady at 22 to 5 points up. Spot quiet at 15 points gain. New Orleans spot 25 points higher. Receipts—Atlantic 10,000, Gulf 41,000. Exports—Britain nil, Continent 3,000. September, 21.25; October, 21.30; November, 21.40; December, 21.50; January, 21.32; February, 21.34; March, 21.37; April, 21.34; May, 21.30; June, 21.17; July, 21.05; August, unquoted.

MINNEAPOLIS—Wheat weak at 1c. loss; No. 1 Northern spring, 110½.

WINNIPEG—Wheat opened easier and 1½c. lower to unchanged. Further declines took place, and the closing was easy at 3c. to 3½c. fall; October, 97½; December, 94½. Oats steady and unchanged; October, 42½.

CHICAGO, Tuesday.

WHEAT opened weak, 1c. to 1¼c. lower, and weakened still more, controlled by large receipts and country offerings, bearish Liverpool cables, lower outside markets, an indifferent cash demand, and commission house selling; then partially recovered on a milling demand and covering. The market closed steady at 1⅛c. to 1½c. fall. Spot easy. No. 2 hard winter, 105½; No. 3 hard winter, nominal. September, 103½; December, 104; May, 100½.

CORN opened steady and unchanged to ⅛c. up, and further improved under reports of cold weather and covering of shorts; but declined later on a slow cash inquiry, sympathy with wheat, and selling by cash houses. Another rise ensued owing to covering operations, export business, and bull support. The market closed steady, ⅛c. up to ⅛c. down. No. 2 mixed, spot, 64½. September, 63½; December, 58, May, 60½.

OATS easy and unchanged to ⅛c. lower. September, 38; December, 36½; May, 38½.

PROVISIONS opened easy, and fell at first on realising, but strengthened later owing to buying by commission houses and a fair cash demand, the market closing steady, with lard 2½ to 5 and ribs 17½ to 10 points down. Lard—September, 10.45; October, 10.40; January, 9.00. Pork unquoted. Ribs—September, 9.75; October, 9.80.

BACON steady and unchanged. The receipts of hogs at 15 principal Western centres, including Chicago, since March 1, total (amended) 14,707,000, against 14,072,000 for the same season last year.

HOGS easy, with light 20 and heavy 25 to 20 points cheaper.

BIBLE ADDRESSES.

A course of addresses is being given in Dublin this week, under the auspices of The Trinitarian Bible Society, by the Rev. J. J. Beddow, the Association Secretary. The first was given in the rooms of the Hibernian Church Missionary Society, 21 Molesworth street yesterday at four o'clock. The subject was "The Book of Genesis; a Refutation of the Higher Criticism." The contention of the speaker was that Genesis is the "seed plot" of the whole Bible. It contains the germ or seed of all subsequent revelation. As its name suggests, it describes the "beginnings" of everything. It does so in such a way that it proves that Genesis, and the whole of the Old and New Testament are inspired by the Spirit of God. That spirit pervaded the minds of all the writers, living as they did, over a long period of time. Collusion and fraud were impossible. Only the Spirit of God could have revealed in Genesis events which are being fulfilled to-day—for example, as in the return of the Jews to Palestine. The theory of Evolution, upon which most of the opposition to Genesis has been based, is now repudiated by the most eminent scientists. Before Canon Barnes preached his memorable sermon last year before the British Association, in which he proclaimed that science had triumphed, two of the former presidents had virtually disowned the theory. Many would-be theological leaders are ignorant both of science and the real teaching of the Bible.

DUBLIN.

PRETTY GENERAL DECLINE ON INTERNATIONAL POSITION. SHAKE OUT IN TOBACCOS, MARCONIS, AND TEXTILES.

The Near East war scare has further adversely affected prices of public securities, and notably leading international industrial and commercial enterprises, but it has also incidentally helped to consolidate prices, which recently displayed a somewhat top-heavy appearance after the recent very substantial general recovery in prices. The Funds were quietly dull, with War Loan 5 p.c. a further small fraction lower, which, by reason of its meagreness, is not a discouraging sign regarding the outcome of Near Eastern affairs. Banks marked time at last prices. There was a fair business current in Breweries and Distilleries, but the only change was a fresh drop in Guinness Ord. shares. Distillery shares were all quietly supported. Marconis relapsed almost a couple of shillings. Home Rails were mostly weaker, with support only tempted apparently at a fresh concession. Leading Textiles fell 7½d. to 1s. 9d. a share. Goulding Pref. gave way, but Brunner Mond shares were much better than previous price here. Bolands issues were sellers for choice. The price of Bagots Hutton Pref. advanced to 52s. 6d. Tobacco shares fell a couple of shillings, and Oils were on sale at a further relapse.

In the Funds War Loan 5 p.c. fell ⅛ to 99⅛. National War 5 p.c. Bonds, 1928 (3rd Series) realised 104⅛.

Banks were just steady. Bank Stock repeated 225, Hibernians 6¼, and Provincial Old 20⅛.

In Breweries and Distilleries Guinness Ord. further fell ⅛ to 42⅞, while the Pref. repeated 11¼, Dunvilles 13¼, and J. Power and Son Pref. 19s. 9d.

Marconi Ord. fell 1s. 9d. to 45s. 3d.

Home Rails were sellers. Midland Great Western fell 1 to 23, and Great Northern Debs. ¼ to 74¼, while the Guaranteed Stock of the same line repeated 64.

In Bakery shares Bolands Pref. fell ⅛ to 6 for a broken lot.

Dunlop issues were on offer, especially Dunlop Rubber Ord., about 8s. 6d., but nothing was done.

As regards Manufacturing shares, Brunner Mond rose 2s. 10½d. to 23s. 3d. Bryant and May Ord. repeated 40s. 6d. Calicos fell 1s. 6d. to 23s., Coats 7½d. to 66s. 1½d., Spinners 1s. 9d. to 41s. 6d., and Goulding Pref. 2s. 6d. to 80s. Imperial Tobaccos opened 2s. 3d. lower at 66s. 3d., but later 66s. 9d. was paid.

Among Trading, etc., shares, Bagots Hutton Pref. rose 2s. 2d. to 52s. 6d., while Burke 6 p.c. £5 Pref. repeated 62s. 6d., and Hayes, Conyngham and Robinson 5 p.c. Debs. 62s. 6d. also.

DUBLIN.

PRETTY GENERAL DECLINE ON INTERNATIONAL POSITION. SHAKE OUT IN TOBACCOS, MARCONIS, AND TEXTILES.

The Near East war scare has further adversely affected prices of public securities, and notably leading international industrial and commercial enterprises, but it has also incidentally helped to consolidate prices, which recently displayed a somewhat top-heavy appearance after the recent very substantial general recovery in prices. The Funds were quietly dull, with War Loan 5 p.c. a further small fraction lower, which, by reason of its meagreness, is not a discouraging sign regarding the outcome of Near Eastern affairs. Banks marked time at last prices. There was a fair business current in Breweries and Distilleries, but the only change was a fresh drop in Guinness Ord. shares. Distillery shares were all quietly supported. Marconis relapsed almost a couple of shillings. Home Rails were mostly weaker, with support only tempted apparently at a fresh concession. Leading Textiles fell 7½d. to 1s. 9d. a share. Goulding Pref. gave way, but Brunner Mond shares were much better than previous price here. Bolands issues were sellers for choice. The price of Bagots Hutton Pref. advanced to 52s. 6d. Tobacco shares fell a couple of shillings, and Oils were on sale at a further relapse.

In the Funds War Loan 5 p.c. fell ¼ to 99⅛. National War 5 p.c. Bonds, 1928 (3rd Series) realised 104¼.

Banks were just steady. Bank Stock repeated 225, Hibernians 6¼, and Provincial Old 20⅛.

In Breweries and Distilleries Guinness Ord. further fell ⅛ to 42⅛, while the Pref. repeated 11¼, Dunvilles 13¼, and J. Power and Son Pref. 19s. 9d.

Marconi Ord. fell 1s. 9d. to 45s. 3d.

Home Rails were sellers. Midland Great Western fell 1 to 23, and Great Northern Debs. ½ to 74½, while the Guaranteed Stock of the same line repeated 64.

In Bakery shares Bolands Pref. fell ⅛ to 6 for a broken lot.

Dunlop issues were on offer, especially Dunlop Rubber Ord., about 8s. 6d., but nothing was done.

As regards Manufacturing shares, Brunner Mond rose 2s. 10½d. to 23s. 3d. Bryant and May Ord. repeated 40s. 6d. Calicos fell 1s. 6d. to 23s., Coats 7½d. to 66s. 1½d., Spinners 1s. 9d. to 41s. 6d., and Goulding Pref. 2s. 6d. to 80s. Imperial Tobaccos opened 2s. 3d. lower at 66s. 3d. but later 66s. 9d. was paid.

Among Trading, etc., shares, Bagots Hutton Pref. rose 2s. 2d. to 52s. 6d., while Burke 6 p.c. £5 Pref. repeated 62s. 6d., and Hayes, Conyngham and Robinson 5 p.c. Debs. 62s. 6d. also.

BRIGHTER STOCKS.

CAUSE OF THE RALLY.

(FROM OUR FINANCIAL CORRESPONDENT AND THE "FINANCIAL NEWS" OF TO-DAY.)

A remarkable change for the better came over the Stock Markets yesterday. Markets were firm, and in practically every department a general improvement in quotations was exhibited. This rally was due primarily to the more favourable view taken of the situation in the Near East, which is looked upon as being more hopeful. A certain amount of credence was given to the report that the Bank of England will guarantee the six months' German Treasury Bonds from January to June, 1923, payable to Belgium, but there has been no actual verification of it so far beyond the suggestion which has been put forward that the Bank of England has arranged to provide the necessary funds as against the issue of those Bonds. In the early part of the day business was somewhat interfered with by the arrangements for the general carry-over, which was manipulated at an average rate of 5 to 6 p.c. Most departments disclosed the existence of large bull accounts, as was evidenced by the number of "givers" which preponderated very largely both in the Home and Foreign Railway markets. In Foreign Bonds, however, the Contango position was only comparatively small, which is explained by the fact that the business transacted during the fortnight has been chiefly confined to foreigners, who either take up or deliver. As a result of the day's markings, gilt-edged stocks showed a much harder tendency, prices being advanced almost all round. Conversion Loan was one of the prominent Government stocks. Closing at 72¼ overnight, it now advanced to 72⅜, and War Loan, after touching 99½, at one time finished at 99⅛. Consols, too, were a bright spot. There was considerable pressure to sell India stocks early in the session, and prices fell, but quotations hardened later, and some of the losses were recovered. Colonials were mainly steady, rises and falls being fairly equal in number.

LONDON STOCKS RECOVER SLIGHTLY.

MORE CHEERFUL TONE.

The Stock markets rebounded sharply yesterday morning on the more hopeful outlook regarding the Near East, and business, though not at all active, was more cheerful. In British Funds, Consols gained ¼ to 56¼. The 5 per cent. War Loan also rose ⅛ to 99⅛, and the Conversion Loan at 72⅜ was ⅛ higher. India Loans were unchanged, and showed no sign of recovery from the heavy falls of Monday.

FOREIGN GOVERNMENT SECURITIES were quiet but steady. French Fives rose ½ to 34, while the Fours were unchanged. German Threes rose ⅛ to 1⅛. Peruvian Corporation Pref. rose ½ to 29. Mexican Fives fell 2 to 57½.

HOME RAILS showed a marked recovery in most cases. Business was not active, but the advances were generally retained at the close. Great Eastern rose 1 to 37, Great Northern Def. 1 to 42½, North-Eastern Consols 1 to 117, and Underground Income Bonds 2 to 86½. Southern Western Def. at 30½, Metropolitan at 56, Midland Def. at 66, and South-Eastern Def. at 35 all rose ½. Caledonian Def. rose ¼ to 15¼, while the only fall of importance was that of a point to 100½ in North-Eastern Pref.

In COLONIAL AND FOREIGN RAILWAYS, "Canpacs" fell 1 to 166. In Argentines, Pacifics rose ½ to 52. Central Uruguay fell 1¼ to 35. San Paulo Ord. 3 to 121, and United of Havana 1 to 62.

OIL SHARES BETTER.

THE NEW ACCOUNT.

Conditions during the account now in course of settlement, and particularly in the latter part of the period, have been none too cheerful, and consequently the making up prices fixed yesterday show a preponderance of declines. At the same time, it has to be remembered that an all-round advance was recorded on the previous account, and it is at least satisfactory that the improvements then shown have not been entirely wiped out by the recent fall. The general rate for the continuation of bargains was 6 per cent. to 7 per cent., which must be regarded as high. Exceptions were provided by Shells, which were done at 4 per cent. to 5 per cent.; Mexican Eagles, which commanded 3½ per cent. to 4 per cent.; and Royal Dutch, which were continued on the basis of 2½ per cent. to 3½ per cent. The carry-over was arranged quite easily, a small bull position being disclosed. Firmness characterised the commencement of dealings for new time. A little hesitation became noticeable soon after the opening, but prices showed no sign of slipping back, and in the absence of sellers, and with Paris operators supporting their favourites to a moderate extent, it was not long before higher prices were established, the more speculative descriptions hardening in sympathy with the leaders. Royal Dutch opened easier, while strength developed in the late afternoon, opening prices in New York being much better. At the close the shares showed an appreciable recovery. Shells and Mexican Eagles also strengthened, while Anglo-Persians and Burmahs made good part of the preceding day's losses. Closing prices:—

LONDON MINING MARKET FIRM.

RECOVERY IN PRICES.

Thanks to the lifting of the political clouds, the House presented a much more cheerful appearance yesterday, especially as Paris was evidently less perturbed than on preceding days. Consequently, a general revival in markets was witnessed, and Mines participated in the forward movement. As regards Kaffirs, it was early recognised that, in view of the absence of real selling, the decline of the previous day had been overdone. Indeed, the position and prospects of the Rand industry are such that no justification for depression exists, and but for the fact that the short interest were eager to avail themselves of outside influences, however remote, there was no reason for the drastic set-back. It was suggested, however, that certain big interests had curtailed carrying-over facilities, and had thus been able to secure for cash considerable lines of shares at low prices. The incidence of the general settlement failed to interfere to any material extent with the ordinary course of business, and, as advices from the French capital were more reassuring, the improvement in values was not only fairly general, but was also maintained to the close, the last prices being the best of the day. Those counters which had suffered to the greatest extent during the weakness of the opening day of the week were naturally the first to feel the effects of a change of sentiment, and Central Mining, Rand Mines, "Johnnies," the Randfonteins, and some of the Far-Easterns registered appreciable gains. East Rand were also prominent, and several other counters followed in the wake of the leaders. With regard to the last-named, vague rumours were in circulation of possible developments as to the future working of the property, but during business hours no official news came to hand. Tin remained idle, Dolcoath being unaffected by the news of the award of the Trade Facilities Board, the market being inclined to await the decision of the directors as to the acceptance of the terms. West Africans were better inclined, but trading in Australians was almost at a standstill. The Electrolytic Zinc Co. announces the declaration of a dividend of practically 7½d. per share on the Cum Part. Pref. shares, this distribution representing the arrears from July 1 to December 31, 1921. Mexico Mines were strong. Champion Reef were unaffected by the news of a serious rock burst. Closing prices:—

INDUSTRIALS RISING.

COURTAULDS STRONG.

The better outlook in the political world was fully reflected in the brighter atmosphere which prevailed in Stock markets yesterday, and in which the Miscellaneous and Industrial markets participated. The carry-over was arranged without difficulty. Courtaulds were done at from 5 to 6 p.c., while the general rate on Industrials ranged from 5 to 6½ p.c. The open position in Vickers was said to be a considerable one.

In the Textile section Courtaulds were the outstanding feature of strength, closing with a rise of 1s. 10½d. at 55s. 6d. Elsewhere Coats recovered to 66s. 3d. ex div., and rises of 6d. occurred in Amalgamated Cottons at 15s. 3d. and in Calicos at 23s. 6d. British Cellulose were wanted, and strengthened to 5s. 9d., while the Prefs. kept steady at 8s. 9d. Dyestuffs remained at 5s. and the Prefs. at 7s. 9d. Bradford Dyers strengthened to 43s. 7½d. An exception to the general firmness was Listers, which receded to 26s., or 9d. lower on balance. Few changes occurred in the Stores group; Whiteleys improved to 39s., but Harrods eased to 28s. 9d. John Barkers rallied to 47s. In the Banking list Chartered of India lost ¼ at 17⅛, though National of India kept the price at 43½ and Hong Kong and Shanghai at 115. British North Borneos gained 3d. at 10s. 3d., as did also Pekins at 9s. 6d. Forestals weakened to 18s.

Among Caterers Liptons firmed up to 27s. 3d. and J. Lyons stiffened to 4½, after being 4⅛ at one time. A.B.C. kept at 33s. Maypoles gained the turn among Foodstuffs at 6s. 10½d. In the Miscellaneous Trading group, Cements shed 3d. at 15s. 9d., though the Prefs. still ruled at 16s. 3d. and British Portlands at 25s. B. and A. Meats hardened to 32s. 6d. Oil Cakes rose 3d. to 25s., but Lever 7 and 8 p.c. Prefs. both remained at 19s. 7½d. Michael Nairns were a good spot at 32s. 6d. Dunlops were the turn better at 8s. 6d., while the "A" Prefs. gained 4½d. at 16s. 4½d. Roneos fell ⅛ to ⅞. Brunner Monds came into demand, and finished 9d. higher at 33s. 3d. Salt Unions, however, lost 6d. at 17s. 6d. and Borax Pref. ⅛ at 4⅞. Motors remained quietly steady. Among Newspaper and Printing concerns Amalgamated Press slipped back to 43s. 6d., but the Prefs. improved to 24s. 3d. Movements in the Canadian-American group were all to lower levels. Spanish River Pulp Common and Pref. both losing 6 at 102½ and 112½, respectively.

In the Iron and Steel department a demand sprang up for Vickers, which closed 4½d. higher at 12s. 4½d. The tax free Prefs. kept at 16s. 3d., and Armstrongs at 15s. 3d. South Durhams were a firm spot, finishing with a gain of ⅛ at 2⅛. B.S.A. recovered to 8s. 9d., Cargo Fleets improved to 15s. 3d., and Sheffield Steels to 2s. 6d. GOLD FROM SOUTH AFRICA.

The thirty-second annual report of the Transvaal Chamber of Mines, covering the year 1921, provides a large amount of information for those interested in the gold industry of South Africa. It is true that much water has passed under the bridges since the period under review, and the effects of the upheaval that has shaken the industry in the meantime make the reading of this report seem like an echo of a long past time. As was to be expected, the year did not end without some signs of the gathering storm, and the minor strikes that hampered working are duly chronicled. The unique position occupied by the Rand in the world's production of gold is shown by the steadily rising percentage of the precious metal coming from the Transvaal. For several years the phrase, "Nearly half of the world's production," has been used, but in 1921 this has to be changed to "more than half," as the output now reached 54.4 per cent. Since 1884, when work on the fields was commenced, the total value of the gold produced has amounted to £694,667,753—a fascinating sum to contemplate. Of this amount, £158,524,753 has been distributed in dividends, and it is evident that during the last four decades a large measure of prosperity has accrued to the miners and the industries catering for the requirements of gold mines.

THE MONEY MARKET.

COMFORTABLE CONDITIONS.

EXCHANGES BETTER.

Comparatively speaking, conditions remained rather comfortable in Lombard street yesterday, although there was no surplus of loanable credit, but the political situation was viewed with more confidence. The £1,000,000 of Manchester Corporation bills had to be paid for yesterday, but despite this borrowers were able to get night money down to 1½ per cent. from 2 per cent. Some of the old 2 per cent. money was being paid off, and cheaper accommodation obtained. Fixtures were being renewed at 1½ per cent.

Mixed parcels of October-November and December Treasury bills were done at 2⅛ per cent., the early months individually being quoted at 2½ per cent.

Gold remained unaltered at 93s. 4d. per ounce. A small amount of yesterday's offerings was taken for India, the balance going to New York. On China buying, bar silver rose ⅛d. per ounce for both spot and forward delivery to 35⅛d. and 35⅛d., respectively.

Interest in the foreign exchange market yesterday was centred in the reported arrangement whereby the Reichsbank is prepared to guarantee the "reparation" Treasury bills payable to Belgium. The fact that the Bank of England is associated with the scheme created a very favourable impression, and important developments are looked for. German marks were quick to respond to this news, improving to under 6,000 at one time, but owing to the political deadlock in the Near East there was a reaction to 6,600, which was slightly above Monday night's close. French francs were rather nervous of politics, but improved a little to 58.30-58.35, and Belgium to 61.70-61.80. Italy was dull at 105½. Sterling was still inclined to cheapen on New York, being 4.41½-4.42. Danish kroner were a little disturbed by the banking crisis, and offered at 21.30, while Sweden was steady at 16.70, and Holland at 11.43. Greece remained rather nominal at 210-220, while Vienna was 315,000 offered, and Poland 31,000 offered. Budapest was quoted 9,000-11,000, Czecho-Slovakia being well maintained at 134-137. Rupees were rather steadier at 1s. 3⅛d., and Japanese yen were easier at 2s. 2⅛d. The following are closing quotations:—

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

The whole of the Broken Hill Proprietary Company's plant at Newcastle being shut down, with the exception of the steel foundry, which produced during the period under review 17 tons of castings, production has entirely ceased. Advantage is being taken to effect various repairs and alterations.

A cablegram has been received from the Superintendent of the Champion Reef Gold Mines, dated 19th inst., as follows:—"Regret to have to report that rockburst has occurred between 54-56 levels, glen shaft, 100 feet shaft choked, 28 men buried, 23 taken out alive, 1 dead. Rescuing continues. Hope shall be able to maintain present returns. Development this section of the mine will have to be suspended during next two months."

The Ottoman Railway have received advices that, though a coach shed and shop have been destroyed, the other parts of their terminal station at Smyrna, with warehouses, workshops, and offices were intact on the 18th inst. Trains on the Odemish and Tireh branches, 70 miles from Smyrna, were running under Turkish control. No news of the remainder of the system was obtainable.

It is understood that the initial steps towards the rearrangement of the Underground Electric Combines capital have been discussed at a private meeting. Exactly what has transpired it is impossible to say, but on the Stock Exchange the view is that the income bonds will be treated as a straight 6 p.c. security. It is expected that the one shilling A Shares will be eliminated, an anticipation that explains the recent speculative demand for them in the hope that holders will be bought out at a price.

Apparently all that remains to be done before the Mexican debt settlement scheme is put into motion is the sanction of the Mexican Senate, the approval of the House of Representatives having been given. In these circumstances, it would not be unreasonable to expect the Mexican Government and Guaranteed Bonds to gain greater prominence before long. Of course, there is still a feeling of suspicion engendered by the long period of revolution and default, for confidence generates very slowly after such an experience. But we should imagine, says the Evening Standard, that once the settlement scheme gets into operation effectively this will do a great deal to lessen the nervousness that renders Mexican Bonds rather too speculative for many people.

The meeting of the Dublin and Kingstown Railway Company will be held at the office, 36 College Green, Dublin, on Thursday, 28th inst., at 11 o'clock, to receive the report and statement of accounts for the six months ending 31st August, 1922, and to transact other business. The transfer books will be closed on and after Thursday, 14th inst., until the 30th inst. Shareholders will please note that during the continuance of the postal strike reports will not be posted to them, but will be available at the company's office.

The directors of Bryant and May announce that in accordance with the conditions attaching to their issue of 7½ per cent. Five-Year Notes the company will repay on January 1, 1923, the principal, together with a premium of 2 per cent. and interest. It is intended shortly to make an issue of Debenture Stock, to which note holders will be invited to subscribe.

LIVERPOOL, Tuesday.—WHEAT—The sharp rise in Winnipeg and Chicago which was partly attributed to the adverse Near East situation, had been somewhat discounted here, though speculative positions of wheat marked a further fair advance at the commencement of operations. Buyers were disinclined to follow the movement, and, with a disappointing millers' demand, prices receded. December finishing under last night's, afternoon cables failing to lend encouragement. Wheat on the spot was quiet, unchanged, to 4d. per cental over Friday. MAIZE—Spot parcels showed ½d. advance for American mixed, but River Plate ½d. per cental decline. FLOUR quiet, and purchases in some cases could be made at 1/- per 280lbs. decline. Wheat futures opened 1d. dearer, but closed ½d. higher to ½d. lower than last night. Maize options nominal.

PROVISIONS.

LIVERPOOL, Tuesday.—BACON—The market for American bacon here remained steady to firm, Chicago cables showing live hogs again dearer, but speculative products somewhat irregular, while arrivals at this port were of moderate character. Trading continued of a hand-to-mouth description, clear bellies attracting some little attention, though prices were easier at 97/- to 100/- per cwt., which represented the only quotable change, though Cumberlands fully maintained late rates owing to scarcity. HAMS generally quiet. Shoulders skinned easier at 110/- to 117/- per cwt., but not quotably altered. Canadian Wiltshires remain steady, with supplies in small compass; Irish and Continental in only moderate demand, and Dutch now quoted 140/- to 145/- per cwt. LARD on the spot rules steady at late currencies for both prime steam and American refined, with a fair inquiry experienced for the latter. CHEESE in only moderate request, and prices continue to favour buyers. BUTTER quiet, without material alteration in values, though sellers are easy to approach. EGGS firm, with Irish hen held at 20/6 to 22/6, and duck 18/6 to 19/6 per 120.

LONDON, Tuesday.—TEA—In auction 19,000 packages met a good demand at firm rates. COCOA—The large supplies of 18,671 bags offered in auction met with scarcely any demand, and mostly bought in, as sellers showed no inclination to meet buyers' views. MISCELLANEOUS.

DUBLIN HAY AND STRAW (Smithfield), Tuesday.—The existing bad condition of the weather had a deterring effect on both sales and the attendance of buyers. A PUBLIC BOON

So widely-spread and far-reaching is the influence of Beecham's Pills upon the health of the people that it is possible without exaggeration to refer to them as a Public Boon. The mere fact that they have stood the test of publicity for so many years is good evidence of their value. No amount of advertising would alone enable a proprietary medicine, or anything else, to maintain its popularity decade after decade. It must possess absolute merit. And there is no question as to the merit of Beecham's Pills. Everywhere you can find testimony to their curative value. In the better health, more buoyant spirits, and brighter lives of countless numbers is to be seen proof of the excellence of
